India Completes Turnover Of POWs to Allied Control

'One Good Turn Deserves...'

This year's March of Dimes will receive a donation that represents the efforts of a group of Marion girls to help repay the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for the assistance it has given one of their friends.

Eleven girls, all 1953 graduates of St. Mary High School, are making and selling fudge with the idea of turning over the proceeds to the March of Dimes in the name of Miss Shirley Granger, a classmate who was stricken with the disease last year.

Miss Granger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Granger of 491 E. Center St., leaves Saturday morning for the Foundation's treatment center at Warm Springs, Ga., and her friends hope to raise about $100, the cost of treating one patient for a week at the center.

The project first got underway when Miss Cusick decided to give a surprise going-away party for Miss Granger. Then Miss Dwyer tossed in the idea to make fudge at the party, selling it and turning over the proceeds to the March of Dimes.

The girls are selling the fudge by solicitation and plan to sell it at the St. Mary-Columbus Holy Rosary basketball game at the Coliseum Saturday night. They haven't set a fixed sales price; the candy is sold for donations.

The group that attended last nights fudge-making party included the Misses Granger, Cusick, Dwyer, Korte, Connie Finnegan, Joan Messenger, Islea Beth Endicott, Rosemary Uhl, Pat McGowan, Madge McKim, Marilyn Garster and Janice Jones.

Rail Magnate Young, Aides To Quit C&O

Paves Way for Move To Grab N.Y. Central; Eaton Acquires Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert R. Young, clear of all connections with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, was free today to achieve his ambition of controlling the New York Central System—if he can.

The 56-year-old Texas-born financier dropped a bombshell in financial and railroad circles with the announcement last night that he and a group of associates are quitting the C&O and severing all ties that in the past have kept him sitting on the Central board.

Kirby Goes With Him

The C&O announced that Young had resigned as board chairman of the C&O. With him went his companion in an astonishing rise to power, Allan P. Kirby, who stepped out as president of he railroad.

For years Young—the most discussed and unorthodox figure in American railroading—has talked of controlling the Central.

While Young himself made no statement last night announcements by the C&O and by the Alleghany Corp., holding company of which Young is board chairman, left small doubt of what he is after now.

Four other C&O directors, all of them with financial interests in Alleghany or its subsidiaries, also resigned from the C&O board.

They were James Blaine, Henry Guild, Harry Thompson and Andrew Van Pelt.

Sold to Cleveland

At the same time, the C&O announced that Alleghany had sold all its remaining holdings in the C&O — 104,854 shares of common stock—to Cyrus S. Eaton, wealthy Cleveland industrialist. Eaton was unanimously elected board chairman to succeed Young.

Since 1951 Eaton has been the C&O's largest individual stockholder. He now owns 205,854 C&O shares and, according to the C&O is interested in a company owning 45,000 more shares. The total market value of all these shares is nearly nine million dollars.

The C&O announced further that all ties between Alleghany Corp. and the C&O will be severed—

KIDNAPED BROKER IS FREE. San Francisco police raided a house (top) and freed real estate broker Leonard Moskovitz, who had been held chained for 63 hours by kidnapers demanding $500,000 ransom under threat of torture and death. His abductors were captured. Moskovitz, 36 (bottom, right), is embraced by his wife while radio newsmen quiz him. At bottom left are two ads put in the San Francisco Examiner in accord with kidnapers' instructions. First one tells abductors that the family can't raise the ransom and later one says money (reduced to demand of $300,000) is ready.

Korea Truce Is Destroyed, Reds Charge

Transfer of 21,809 Anti-Red Prisoners Occurs Without Hitch

PANMUNJOM, Thursday (AP) — India completed early today the historic turnover of 21,809 anti-Red prisoners to the U.N. command as North Korean broadcasts declared the action "destroys" the armistice."

The last prisoner, a Chinese, was turned over at 12:55 a. m. (10:55 p. m. Wednesday, EST) at the end of a surprisingly smooth operation during which the North Korean and Chinese captives often sang and cheered in the rain and mud.

Ends 3 Years in Captivity

The Indian command announced that 14,227 Chinese and 7,582 North Koreans were turned out of the compounds at Panmunjom, ending more than three years of captivity for many of them.

The Indians said 72 Chinese and 32 North Koreans asked to go home or to a neutral country during the operation, which began Wednesday morning.

The Communists, who had protested the turnover plans bitterly, made no threatening gestures as the prisoners streamed southward.

The U.N. Command has promised all of the prisoners their freedom at midnight Friday.

Red China's Peiping radio Wednesday night repeated it's warning that "any unilateral action with regard to the prisoners of war is absolutely impermissible." But the warning was mildly worded and officials said the Reds apparently had accepted the Indian command's decision to return unrepatriated prisoners as an accomplished fact.

The transfer went smoothly despite minor hitches and a cold, drizzling rain.

At least twice the southward flow of prisoners was interrupted. No Koreans appeared for an hour early in the evening, but there was no explanation. Earlier a dispute over a prisoner asking repatriation halted the movement of Chinese prisoners.

Some Ask Repatriation

A handful of American, British and South Korean prisoners who chose to stay with the Communists remained in their neutral zone compound. The Indians planned to turn them back to the Communists, but the Reds refused to take them.

The Indians reported receipt of a letter from the Communist high command stating flatly that the Reds did "not propose to receive" custody of the prisoners Wednesday.

The note was in addition to a nine-page letter of protest sent to the Indian command Tuesday.

Nationalists Jubilant

Meanwhile, in Taipeh, Chinese Nationalists were jubilant after hearing the release had begun. Formosa's biggest celebration in years is planned for the day the POWs begin landing.

Nationalist sources said the prisoners will be held in special villages for an undetermined period for re-education and then will be given a choice of civilian life or joining Nationalist military forces.

2 Pedestrians Injured in City Auto Mishaps

Driver Fined $100 On Hit-Skip Charge; 1 Accident in County

Two Marion pedestrians, one struck by a hit-skip driver who was later arrested, were slightly injured in two of six traffic accidents reported on city and county streets and highway yesterday by police and the state highway patrol.

The hit-skip accident occurred at 1:18 p.m. yesterday at S. Main and Church Sts. when Mrs. Frank C. Robinson of 538 S. Prospect St. was struck by a car driven by Herbert E. Margwarth, 41, of 360 Bradford St.

Witnesses told police Mrs. Robinson was walking west across S. Main St. and Margwarth was driving west on E. Church St. making a left turn onto S. Main St. when his car struck Mrs. Robinson. Her right leg and hip were bruised and cut and she was taken to City hospital from where she was taken to her doctor's office of examination.

Margwarth did not stop after striking Mrs. Robinson, according to witnesses who obtained the license number of the car. A short time later, at 2:05 p.m., police arrested Margwarth at his residence and charged him with leaving the scene of an accident.

In Municipal Court this morning he pleaded guilty and Judge W. Dexter Hazen fined him $100 and costs and suspended his driver's license for three years without the right to comply with the Ohio Driver's Financial Responsibility Act. This mean there is no way

Quarrel Flares Against Firing Of Investigator

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quarrel among members of the House Un-American Activities Committee over the firing of its chief investigator grew hotter today as Rep. Walter (D-Pa) contested the legality of the action.

The Cincinnati Enquirer said Louis J. Russell was ousted by Chairman Velde (R-Ill) after he admitted borrowing $300 from screen actor Edward G. Robinson, who had appeared before the committee as a cooperative witness in 1952. Russell, a former FBI agent, could not be reached for comment.

Velde's announcement last week gave no reason for firing Russell, who had been a committee investigator since 1945. It drew an immediate challenge from Walter and Rep. Kearney (R-NY).

They contended Velde should not have acted until after a special subcommittee on which they were serving with the chairman had made a report on personnel problems.

The committee yesterday endorsed Velde's action in a 6-0 vote. Walter, Kearney and Rep. Frazier (D-Tenn) did not vote.

Contacted in Cincinnati, Rep. Scherer (R-Ohio), another committee member, would neither con-

Advance Agent Admits Taking Benefit Money

Mystery Show Funds Missing; New York Man Bound to Jury

A New York City man was bound over to the Marion County Grand Jury from Municipal Court late yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $251 from Carlos Enterprises of Toledo and the Marion Police and Firemen's Cottage Committee.

Robert Lewis Russell, 44, an advance agent for Carlos Cavalcade of Mystery which staged a show at the Harding High School gymnasium Saturday, was arrested at 3:27 p.m. Saturday.

Charges Filed

Yesterday afternoon, Victor Lewis of Toledo, a partner in Carlos Enterprises, filed formal charges of embezzlement against Russell. After Russell pleaded guilty Judge W. Dexter Hazen ordered him bound over to the grand jury and set his appearance bond at $2,500. Unable to post the bond, Russell is being held in the county jail.

James Bradshaw, city fireman serving as general chairman of the police and firemen's committee, reported the committee first became suspicious of a shortage in advance collections for the show about Dec. 24.

The mystery show was sponsored by the committee to raise funds for the maintenance and upkeep of a cottage at Lake Erie used by members of the two city departments for recreation purposes.

Admits $300 Theft

Last week a complete check of deposit records made by Russell from advance ticket sales and advance sale of sponsorships and program advertising was made and it was determined $251 was missing, Bradshaw said.

In questioning by police, Russell admitted to taking $300, but was only charged with the smaller amount which the committee had proof was missing, Bradshaw added.

Following the discovery that funds were missing, Carlos Enterprises donated their share of the proceeds to the police and firemen's committee, Bradshaw said. The Saturday show was attended by some 800 persons.

Ike Beginning Second Year, Thrives in Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower started his second year in office today, and a close associate said "he's thriving on the challenge" of the big job ahead.

Cabinet members, Republican party officials and White House staff members arranged to present a surprise gift to the President at a ceremony in his office commemorating the first anniversary of his inauguration.

Like All the Rest

Otherwise, the 63-year-old Chief Executive's day shaped up pretty much like scores of others during the last 12 months.

He scheduled a breakfast conference with Secretary of State Dulles who flies to Berlin tomorrow for the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

A Cabinet business session was listed just ahead of the anniversary ceremony. These meetings ordinarily are held on Friday, but this week's was planned for today because of the special occasion.

People who have worked with Eisenhower in the White House report that he seems to be in top physical condition and in a cheerful frame of mind.

Aide Comments

One aide who sees the President many times a day said Eisenhower "probably hates" some of the detail of his job and that he isn't very happy about having to attend all the social functions he does.

This aide, who asked that his name be withheld, also said the President chafes somewhat under the confinement of the presidency —although he has traveled 36,474 miles since his inauguration.

2 California Kidnapers Split Up as One Confesses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two one-time private detectives jailed as abductors in the "Case of the Kidnaped Twin" split up today—police said one confessed and blamed the other, who denied some of the story but essentially wouldn't talk.

The victim, short, round-faced Leonard Moskovitz, 36, was rescued unharmed and smiling yesterday morning after 2½ days of captivity. No ransom was paid despite demands of first $500,000 and then $300,000.

Could Get Death

Under California's "Little Lindbergh Law," kidnapping with bodily harm carries a maximum penalty of death and a minimum of life without parole. Kidnaping without harm carries a penalty of life with the possibility of parole.

Moskovitz said he was not injured, but Dist. Atty. Thomas Lynch told newsmen the interpretation of bodily harm is up to a jury, which could decide that cruel bonds or the like could mean injury. Moskovitz was bound and shackled during most of his imprisonment.

The two men arrested were seized separately. The first, Joseph William Lear, 43, of Sacramento, Calif., was caught in a telephone booth making a ransom call to the victim's identical twin and constant companion Alfred.

Led Police to House

Police said Lear broke down and led them to a rented house, where a stocking-foot raiding party broke in, rescued Moskovitz and arrested 57-year-old Harold Jackson of Sacramento as he stood in his shorts. Jackson was shivering with fright, said Inspector Al Nelder, who nailed him.

The arrests ended the biggest San Francisco manhunt ever—and broke the best-kept secret of years. On police request, all news outlets had voluntarily held back the story until Moskovitz was safe.

Police said Lear, a soft-faced and fearful hearing aid salesman, made a complete confession after he and Jackson had been booked on suspicion of kidnaping.

Threatened With Death

Chief Homicide Inspector Frank Ahern said Lear blamed the whole plot on Jackson. He said Lear related:

Lear had believed he was working with Jackson on a detective case until Moskovitz was bundled into a house rented by Jackson and threatened with death unless Moskovitz' family paid $500,000 ransom.

Lear followed Jackson's lead from fear.

Kansas City Plane Crash Is Fatal to 3

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Three persons were killed today when a chartered cargo plane crashed while attempting to land during a snow storm at the municipal air terminal.

The men were tentatively identified by P. N. Goldstein, air safety investigator for the CAB, as:

Experts Set Up Berlin Meeting

4-Power Agreement Reached Over Details

BERLIN (AP)—Big Four teams of conference experts pushed ahead today with arrangements for the foreign ministers parley opening here Monday.

The American, British, French and Russian committee assigned to work out preparations announced last night they had agreed on the principal technical questions.

They gave no details but their main problems concerned setting up a secretariat and deciding on security measures, communications and handling of the international press.

The "working parties" of experts called a third meeting late today at U.S. headquarters in hopes of clearing away remaining details.

Both Soviet-run East Berlin and the Allied West sector buzzed with preparations for the historic gathering, the first since the four foreign ministers met in Paris in 1949.

Truckers Take Axle Tax Fight Into U.S. Court

Group of 31 From Six States Seeks To Avoid Paying Levy in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Federal Judge Lester Cecil yesterday turned down a request for a temporary restraining order to prevent collection of Ohio's new axle-mile truck tax.

A group of 31 interstate truckers from six states including Ohio asked the injunction.

Full-Scale Hearing

Judge Cecil said he will ask the presiding judge of the federal circuit to convene a three-judge court for a full scale hearing on a request for a permanent order.

All defendants named in the action are state officials: John W. Peck, state tax commissioner; R. E. Foley, registrar of motor vehicles; George Mingle, superintendent of the State Highway Patrol; S. O. Linzell, state highway director; Robert Moulton, chairman of the state utilities commission and C. William O'Neill, Ohio attorney general.

The request for a temporary restraining order was the first court action on the strongly disputed tax passed by the last Legislature.

File Injunction

The tax was designed to make truckers pay a share of the cost for the state's highway system. It was enacted with legislation boosting the gasoline tax one cent.

Truckers, from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Connecticut and New York, filed their request for a

Bricker Willing

Democrat Wants Senate Test in Amendment Spat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George (D-Ga) urged Republicans today to take to a Senate vote their differences over a proposed constitutional amendment on treaty powers. But Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP leader, said he hasn't given up hope of a compromise.

George, taking a leading role for the Democrats in the treaty controversy, said he regards as "a fair proposition" an offer by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to submit to a rollcall test a section of a proposed constitutional amendment criticized by President isenhower.

Eisenhower said he would never agree to giving the states power to nullify within their own borders the operations of treaties.

Bricker has said that what he is trying to do is to make sure that treaties don't take away the rights of the states to establish the qualifications of voters and to exercise other powers reserved to them in the Constitution. Lawyers disagree as to whether this is a real danger.

George said the quick and simple way to end the argument is to put it up to the Senate.

"I don't see why the Republican leaders should object to settling this issue in the Senate," the Georgia senator said in an interview. "A good many senators who favor adoption of a constitutional amendment don't want to vote for this clause because they believe it goes too far.

"I think I might vote to eliminate

Cheering Chinese Begin Return Trip to Stockades

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The mournful wail of a Chinese bugle cut jagged slashes in the icy air as it had so many times before.

The long, sad, chilling notes floated from hill to hill and lost themselves across the frozen paddies.

From the north came the throb of a big drum, the roar of frenzied cheering, and waves from the human sea rolled south for the last time.

Once, not so long ago, that eerie music would have chilled the hearts and prickled the skin of the waiting South Korean and American soldiers.

It would have set them crouching over rifles and machine guns, and loosening pins of grenades.

This morning, despite the tenseness, waiting men stomped chilled feet on the frozen ground, turned to each other, and smiled.

"They're coming!"

It was 8:52 a.m., and the first of the Chinese and North Korean prisoners of war marched peacefully out of compounds in Korea's neutral zone.

For the chanting, cheering marchers it must have been a strange and piquant experience.

For among them were thousands who had stormed down that very same road before, in 1950 and 1951.

Then they had swept across the Imjin River ice, over the barbed wire, through the minefields, and into the ROK and

Can't Meet Demand

Coffee Producers Have Troubles Too

NEW YORK (NANA) — Despite record - breaking demand, world coffee producers face one of the most critical challenges in their history, according to Latin American coffee experts.

Three of the principal problems, which are being discussed at the first World Coffee Congress in Curitiba, Brazil, are: 1. Shrinking coffee supplies in some regions, 2. droughts,. insect ravages, erosion, and frost, and 3. rising labor and other production costs.

Coffee growers have been greatly expanding the acreage planted to coffee trees in an attempt to catch up with the swelling demand, according to the Pan-American coffee bureau. With both U. S. and world consumption increasing steadily, however, there appears to be little early prospect of success.

IT TAKES AT LEAST five years for new trees to come into production, so the experts do not foresee a supply-demand balance for some time. Meanwhile, coffee tree yields in many areas have fallen off badly from the high peaks of the 1930's.

According to agronomists at the agronomic institute in Sao Paulo, Brazil, a yield of some 1,600 pounds of coffee per 1,000 trees is necessary for a farmer to make any profit. Recent production in this region has run less than 1,000 pounds per 1,000 trees.

In the '30's it was often as high as 6,500 pounds per 1,000. During this period, exportable coffee totals for Brazil, the world's leading coffee producer, sometimes exceeded 25,000,000 bags annually. The country's total output for the 1953-54 crop year is expected to be about 14,000,000 bags.

WORLD COFFEE imports have been dwindling steadily since 1948, despite consistent efforts to step up tree yields. In addition, coffee farmers have been hard-pressed by climbing costs, droughts, erosion, insect ravages, and frost. Insects and frost alone recently slashed Brazilian production by 19 per cent, according to Joao P. Chaves, president of the Brazilian coffee institute.

Meanwhile, virgin land suitable for coffee growing is no longer as plentiful as it formerly was. At one time it was often easier to seed new lands than to try to revive old ones. Today, in many areas, coffee must be grown on old, often depleted land. And prices for new land have soared.

THE INCREASINGLY high price of labor and transportation are two more serious coffee cost headaches. Not only is there a scarcity of rural workers in some regions—as a result of their steady migration to urban areas to take higher paying industrial jobs—there is also a lack of extensive rail transport facilities in many zones.

Coffee is the basis for a $2,500,000 business in the United States, involving roasters, shippers, restaurateurs, brewing equipment manufacturers, and many other people. And, of course, it is the economic lifeblood of many Latin-American nations. Anything that affects coffee affects millions of people, both in this country and below the border.

That's why Americans have a direct interest in coffee growers' present problems, and why they hope tree yields can eventually be increased.

Cowboys Bigger All Over, Western Clothier Reports

DENVER (AP) — It isn't only in their feet that cowmen are bigger than they used to be. They're bigger all over.

A Denver buyer of Western clothes, noting a boot salesman's observation that the famous Western boot is several sizes larger than it was in bygone years, said today the same holds true for clothing.

Take pants, for instance.

"The average rancher doesn't ride a horse as much as he used to," the buyer said. "He uses a truck or a jeep for a lot of his work. Result: his hips and waistline are expanding. Pants sizes now run 34 to 36."

It's different with the rodeo cowboys, who do a lot of the stiffest kind of riding. They keep their weight down, so their trouser sizes run mostly 30 to 33.

The rodeo hand's favorite hat now is a "dogger style" number with a four-inch brim.

The businessmen of the two nations agreed to meet again in February to organize a Mexican-Argentine commercial development commission to push trade between the two Latin-American countries.

Prosecutor Unconvinced That Defendant Is Insane

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Joseph B. Vanalst, 29, says he eats light bulbs because they're good for his ulcers.

The county jail physician says he has no ulcers.

Prosecutors charge that Vanalst, who also has been known to hide razor blades under his false teeth, is trying to create the impression he is crazy to avoid trial for robbery.

A District Court jury ruled yesterday he was sane. Trial begins today.

Nothing Like This in Script

Exciting TV Drama Occurs Off Screen

By JERRY KLEIN

ESTHERVILLE, Ia., (NANA) — A woman wanted to surprise her husband recently with something he'd always wanted, so she went out and secretly bought him a television set. However, the husband planned a similar surprise for his wife.

Fortunately for both of them, they bought their sets from the same dealer. He took one of them back.

Television seems to have opened up a whole new field for such off-the-screen midadventures. Recent developments uncalled for in the script included these:

A five-month-old cocker spaniel was one of the most rabid television fans in Cleveland. Trouble was that the Spaniel liked to howl with TV singers and bark at the actors. The neighbors complained to the police so often that the dog's master finally moved to another section of town.

A FARMER near Whitby, Ont., put a television set in his barn. He was astonished to find that TV boosted milk production 15 gallons a day.

A divorce was granted a woman in Memphis who said that when she blocked her husband's view of the TV screen, he threw a chair at her and held her head under water.

A judge in Columbus divorce suit awarded the family television set to the husband. The judge said the TV set should go to the parent who receives custody of the children.

A father in Madison, Wis., really put his foot down when he arrived home to find his two daughters arguing over which program they would watch. "I'll decide for you," he said, and kicked in the 21-inch screen.

In Leicester, ng., a man left his truck running while he said goodnight to his fiancee. A neighbor's television reception was disturbed by the running motor, and he came out to protest. But the boyfriend mistook him for a peeping Tom, broke his jaw, and had to pay $204 damages.

TWO BURGLARS broke into a house in Elizabeth, N. J., but instead of tending to business, they settled themselves in front of the TV screen. When the family returned home, the thugs ran out and left their loot behind them.

Television equipment was disappearing from a service company warehouse in Hollywood, so a TV camera was hidden in the rafters. A clerk loaded tubes onto a pickup truck during his lunch hour—while police watched his activities on a screen in another part of the building. The program ended with an arrest.

An 11-year-old boy in Portsmouth was so excited by a TV wrestling match that he jumped up and threw a stranglehold on his mother. She suffered a fractured jaw.

A burglar in Oklahoma City threatened to take the family television receiver unless he was given $100 instead. He was offered $15 cash and $30 in jewelry, but he refused these terms and walked out with the set.

POLICE IN TORONTO, CAN., arrested an electrician for tapping on his neighbor's television antenna.

In Stockton, Cal., a man went to his sweetheart's house to give her an engagement ring, but he wound up shooting himself. The girls's father had just seen the suitor's picture on a TV crime show which identified him as a man wanted for forgery.

A TV fan in Wayne, Ark., had no trouble adjusting his aerial when a local station switched channels. He just took out a shotgun and shot the ends off his antenna.

In New York a man went up to the roof and tore out 29 of his neighbor's antennas. He told the judge that television just did not appeal to him.

A judge in Chicago ruled that a boy who gave his girl friend a TV set couldn't take it back just because their romance had soured. The boy's parents had accused the girl's parents of grand larceny.

Members of Club At State Meeting

Members of 20-30 International joined other clubs in the district for a one-day meeting Saturday at Massillon. Present for the meeting was Philip Jackson of Sacramento, Calif., international president.

The business session was held in the lunge of the YWCA and in the evening there was a dance at Willow Dale Lake Country Club. Included in the day's program was a bowling tournament in which Lowell Ralston, with a score of 256, ranked first.

Attending from the Marion Club were Lawrence Daly, district lieutenant governor, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boyd, Daniel Roecher, president, and Mrs. Roecker, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Ralston, Mr. and Mrs. Rinald Steward, Mr. and Mrs. Don Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hubbard and Karl Ailing.

The next meeting will be held at Mansfield in June.

TRUCK CRASH FATAL

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — John T. Straley, 63, of Circleville, died in the crash of his pickup truck near here yesterday. The truck missed a curve and upset in a ditch.

In 1953, women voted for the first time in Costa Rica.

Yolks White, Too?

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The boy came in the grocery store and looked hurriedly at each carton of eggs in the grocer's rack.

Each was labeled, "All new. All fresh. All white."

The youngster thrust the box toward the clerk and demanded:

"Don't you have any with yellow in them?"

SAWYER TO HEAD DRIVE

CINCINNATI (AP) — Charles Sawyer, former secretary of commerce, will head the Cincinnati Community Chest in its 1954-55 drive for funds.

Many scholars believe that bathrooms were invented in ancient Egypt.

MILENA VESJAKOV, 21, actress wife of Yugoslav Army Chief of Staff Peko Dapcevic, is believed the cause of a controversy in President Tito's "inner circle." An article written by former Vice President Milovan Djilas charged that ranking members of the Communist Party and their wives had "boycotted" the actress because, unlike them, she had not fought in World War II.

Newsmen Are Urged To Drive With Caution

HOBBS, N. M. (AP) — Candidate Leroy Wise today urged New Mexico newsmen to be careful while driving to their winter press convention in Carlsbad over the weekend.

"Our state's newspapermen have been so much help to me in my campaign," said the candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, "that I don't want to take a chance of losing any of them through highway accidents."

Additional 5,000 Laid Off by B&O

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad says the layoff of 5,000 more workers announced yesterday brings to 20 per cent the total reductions since the first of the year. The new layoffs, which will hit Lorain, Ohio, among other places, go into effect as quickly as union contracts permit.

Six thousand were laid off the first week in January. The railroad blamed lack of business for the cuts.

JOINS N. Y. PAPER

NEW YORK (AP)—John K. Herbert, who resigned recently as an executive of the National Broadcasting Co. has been appointed executive publisher of the New York Journal-American.

Two Bandits Get $4,000 in Denver

DENVER (AP) — Two masked bandits bound and gagged a wealthy wholesale liquor operator, his wife, daughter and the family maid and escaped with loot totaling nearly $4,000 last night.

Police said the bandits gained admittance to the home of Joseph Zerobnick by ringing the doorbell and shouting, "Special delivery."

Once inside, police said, they carefully bound and gagged Zerobnick, manager of the Midwest Liquor Co., his wife Goldie, a daughter Natalie, 12, and the maid, Rita Thompson.

Zerobnick said he attempted to hide his billfold under a footstool but a gunman grabbed it. It contained $3,000, he told officers.

The two also took a $350 diamond ring from Zerobnick, a $500 diamond ring from his wife and $20 from her purse.

MANSLAUGHTER INDICTMENT

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charles R. Cooper, 30, driver of a Columbus police cruiser which struck and killed Mrs. Edna Gieke, 40, of Firebrick, Lawrence County, last Oct. 9, will be arraigned on a charge of second-degree manslaughter Jan. 28. The grand jury yesterday charged Cooper drove while intoxicated. Cooper resigned from the police force under fire soon after the accident.

'54 May Decide Administration's Fate

Eisenhower Set for Test of Leadership

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Eisenhower hopped out of bed this morning and looked in the mirror, he may have thought: "How did I ever come to let myself in for this?"

He had moved into the White House one year ago. And it had been a tough, grinding year. The face which gazed back at him in the mirror looked a little older. Not much. Just a little.

But if he wondered why he had been willing to carry on his back that mountain called the presidency, it was probably a thought that lasted only an instant.

He was still as jaunty as ever, working harder and longer hours, perhaps, than any he had endured since those days on the eve of the invasion of Normandy, nearly 10 years ago.

He seemed, judging from the quick grin he could produce, to be enjoying his job. He was still enormously popular. And he was still amazingly free from personal abuse.

He was wiser, no doubt, than he had been that day a year ago when he stood for hours watching the Inaugural Parade. In his first year, he frankly concedes, he was a political novice. He doesn't claim political mastery now.

His handling of Congress this year will illustrate his political development, or lack of it. Last year he was mild and gentle with the lawmakers. Some of his critics said he was more anxious to be liked than to lead.

His friends gave another explanation: he was using 1953 to get his program ready for 1954, so there was no reason in 1953 to antagonize legislators whose help he might otherwise get for his program this year.

Last year he had Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio doing much of the in-fighting for him at the Capitol. Taft's dead now, and no one around can take Taft's place in a hurry.

Toward the end of his first year, Eisenhower gave signs of a toughening attitude, which may be an indication of the mood he'll use in 1954.

That was when Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) made his unexpected criticism of Eisenhower's continued aid to allies who trade with Red China. Secretary of State Dulles replied, defending his policy, and Eisenhower backed Dulles.

If that wasn't Eisenhower's notification to Congress his novice days were over, maybe this was: his statement that the Republicans don't deserve to keep control of Congress in November's elections unless they pass a progressive program.

It was advice which seemed like water off the backs of some of his Republicans whose response to parts of his program, particularly his farm program, was not enthusiastic.

Will he fight for his program? Everybody's waiting to see. If he does, it may not be audible. Instead of public denunciations and urgings, he may work out of sight: over the telephone, through envoys, or by calling the legislators to the White House for a private lecture.

In his State of the Union message Eisenhower sounded pretty confident this country had seized the initiative from the Russians, a view which may turn out to be more assumption than fact. In this kind of war, it's the final results that count.

Students in District To Present Benefit Program at Nevada

A Marion resident and five students from Nevada are members of the Heidelberg College concert choir which will sing in the Nevada High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Sunday to raise funds to establish a memorial scholarship honoring Kenneth A. Kissling.

Mr. Kissling, who died last summer following an extended illness, was a talented young Nevada musician and a graduate of Heidelberg College.

The benefit concert is being sponsored by the churches of Nevada and its proceeds will be used to endow a memorial scholarship fund to aid worthy students of the community who wish to attend a church-related college.

Included in the 75-voice choir are: John Gantt of Marion; Imogene Kuenzli, John Tschantz, Ronald Klink, Robert Sortland and Joel Klink, of Nevada; and John Gradwohl of Kenton.

The choir is directed by Prof. Ferris E. Ohl.

The colonel of a regiment formerly had a proprietary right in it.

REMOVED FROM McCARTHY HEARING. Nathaniel Mills, a suspended General Electric Co. employe, is removed from the room where Sen. Joseph McCarthy is conducting a Senate committee hearing on un-American activities in Boston. Mills threw the hearing into an uproar when he stood up in the rear of the room and accused McCarthy of "conspiring with the company and getting the jobs of General Electric people." This picture was made by Peter J. Carroll, an Associated Press staff photographer.

Hamiltonians Say State Hampering 'Skid Row' Cleanup

CINCINNATI (AP) — Efforts to clean up Hamilton's "skid row" are hampered because of the policies of the state board of liquor control, four Hamiltonians said yesterday.

They spoke at a public hearing held here by the board. They were the only non-board members in attendance.

Police Chief John Bippus, Herbert A. Walsh, assistant Butler County prosecutor; the Rev. Wheaton Webb and Maj. Franklin W. Hoggman of the Salvation Army said reissuance of liquor permits and transfer of others prevented the cleanup of undesirable establishments.

Board members said they had no jurisdiction if the liquor department had already granted the permits.

E. G. Scheussler, a member of the board, suggested the enforcement division of the liquor department would aid in places where the law is violated.

Frank M. Krebs of Dayton told Bippus:

"You, chief, have done a wonderful job in Hamilton and we want to go along with you."

Jobless Total Near Two Million Mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Department figures just out indicate that unemployment may be well over the two-million mark.

The department's Bureau of Employment Security reported yesterday that 467,500 workers filed jobless pay claims during the week that ended Jan. 9. This is the largest weekly total recorded since August 1945.

Jittery Passenger Too Much for Bus Driver, She Quits

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Every time the bus skidded, the woman passenger let out a little shriek. Even when it just looked like it might skid, she hollered.

It was the kind of thing that would bother a man, much less a woman. And a woman, Mrs. Emily Jefferson, was the driver.

Finally she couldn't take it any longer. She pulled the bus to the curb, climbed out and announced:

"You make me nervous. I quit."

The bus company said it understood and she could have her job back. "She was just nervous and upset and didn't want to run any risk," a spokesman explained.

Marion Drum, Bugle Corps Joins League

The Cavaliers, Drum and Bugle Corps of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, has been accepted into the competitive circuit of the Central Drum Corps League.

The competing circuit is composed of 12 drum corps from three states, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. The Ohio corps, besides Marion, are from Bellefontaine, the state champion corps for 1953. Circleville, Dayton, Toledo, Bentley, North College Hill, Forestville, the state champs of 1592, and a VFW corps from Norwood. Other corps in the circuit are from Portland, Ind., and Dearborn and Detroit, Mich.

The circuit, headed by William Ellis of Bellefontaine, was organized primarily to give the Ohio Drum Corps more competitive experience. Each corps in the circuit will compete against the others sometime during this year.

A corps competition in Marion, the first of its kind ever to be held here, has been scheduled for June 27. Other competitions planned in which the Marion Corps will participate include: at Portland, Ind., July 10; Cincinnati, as a part of the state Legion convention, July 24; Bellefontaine, Aug. 5 or 8; Columbus, at the state fair, Aug. 29; Circleville, Sept. 5.

Musical director for the Marion Cavaliers is Eugene Pletcher. They hold auditions on Monday and Thursday nights in the practice hall on E. Center St. above the Singer Sewing Machine Co. Graduates of local high school bands, city and county, are invited to participate. Uniforms and instruments are furnished.

Korean War Policy Questioned by Clay

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, former U. S. military governor in Germany, told a banquet audience last night that the Korean War would have ended sooner if the United States "had been more willing to risk total war in the early stages."

"Freedom is not a cheap commodity," said Clay, now chairman of the board of Continental Can Co, ". . . There must be an end of concession and compromise to ease immediate tensions which, in fact, prolong the settlement of the issues which prevent peace."

Clay spoke at the annual forecasting conference of the Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

Boulders Hold Up Pike Work

Driving Piles Tough, Contractors Indicate

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — Boulders moved here by pre-historic glaciers thousands of years ago now are holding up work on the Ohio Turnpike.

The boulders—some more than three feet in diameter—damage equipment used in the construction of two turnpike bridges to span the Sandusky River.

Contractors explain that 45-foot sheets of steel pile must be hammered into the river botom to build cofferdams—enclosures from which water is pumped to expose the bottom. The two 950-foot bridges require 16 cofferdams.

But many individual piles split spring leaks when pounded through the underwater rocks, according to Charles C. Copenhaver of the Pittsburgh contracting firm, George Vang, Inc.

Leaks do not show up until after the cofferdams are pumped out and clay is dug out by hand. Concreting operations cannot be begun until the leaks are sealed, an operation slower and more costly than placing the original pile.

Copenhaver said he still expects the bridge-building project to be finished by the scheduled date of Oct. 15.

Hogs on Pasture Show Weight Gains

THE TRIHAFT FARM of LaRue, one of the largest hog farms in the county, this year has encountered considerable success in raising hogs on pasture and self-feeders, the Marion County Agricultural Service reports.

Here William Trihaft is shown with a pen of 80 fat hogs marketed recently at the Producers Livestock yards. The hogs averaged 218¼ pounds and brought $27.40 per hundred pounds.

Since Dec. 7, a total of 275 hogs have been marketed by Trihaft and the farm has 127 head more on feed for future sale. The hogs were farrowed in June and raised on pasture and self-feeders up to Nov. 28, with pasture being supplemented by ground alfalfa hay. One hundred head were weighed Nov. 28 and reweighed nine days later, showing a gain of 24 pounds per head. A high percentage of the hogs would grade No. 1.

The 402 head of hogs were produced by 57 gilts that were three-quarter Poland China and one-fourth Hampshire. The sire was a Yorkshire.

Trihaft Farm is located southwest of LaRue on the Winnemac Pike. In partnership with William Trihaft are his brother, John, and sister, Miss Ollie Trihaft.

James Roosevelt, Estranged Wife Exchange Charges

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Jimmy Roosevelt's estranged wife, the former Romelle Schneider, says she doesn't intend to return the mementos given him by his father, the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, until he gives back some valuables of hers.

Roosevelt, who sued for a decree of separate maintenance last Monday, accused his wife of keeping a ring, a wrist watch and a cigarette holder of his father's.

"It was a tit-for-tat situation," she told newsmen. "I took the items shortly before our separation last August and turned them over to my former attorney after Mr. Roosevelt had taken some valuables of mine. I have no desire to keep the mementos for any reason whatsoever, but I will not return them until our differences are settled."

She denied Roosevelt's allegations that she had made unreasonable financial demands.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she would file an answer to her husband's suit as soon as soon as she can retain a lawyer.

Sabotage in Crash Of Comet Jetliner Hinted by British

LONDON (AP)—Five tons of salvage equipment was flown to Malta today to aid experts trying to solve the mystery crash of Britain's crack Comet jetliner, which exploded and plunged into the Mediterranean 10 days ago.

The big question is whether the Comet, the pride of Britain's aviation industry, was blown out of the skies by a saboteur. The plane crashed off the island of Elba a few minutes after leaving Rome, carrying 35 persons to their death.

The theory that a bomb was hidden aboard the sleek jetliner is gaining strengh here.

Minister of Civil Aviation Alan Lennox-Boyd, returning from an on-the-spot investigation, said last night a bomb might have caused the crash.

In Search of a Compromise

Sen. Bricker's views on the proposed constitutional amendment which bears his name have been so widely misrepresented it is no surprise to see his attitude on constitutional government being misrepresented, too.

He is not trying to dictate the terms of his proposal.

From the beginning of his interest in this issue, the Ohio senator has made it clear he is open to any compromise which will satisfy the principal aim of his amendment.

He never has assumed the language in which his proposal was couched could not be improved. On one occasion he freely conceded that certain language in the proposal might be "too restrictive."

In Ohio, where Sen. Bricker is known best, it is being assumed he will not only welcome a compromise to avert a deadlock on his proposal but is helping to search for it in good faith.

That is the spirit of the constitutional government which Sen. Bricker is trying to preserve. All great issues in the United States are subject to the give-and-take of the legislative process.

This particular issue is peculiarly susceptible to the process because it is a lawyer's arguement.

The argument concerns interpretations of language—the language of the Constitution as written originally and the language of a proposal for correcting a flaw in the original version.

The Supreme Court of the United States, itself, has been unable to agree on what the original language was intended to mean. It is no wonder that menwho are advocates, not judges, are unable to agree on what language would be required to carry out Sen. Bricker's purpose in his proposed amendment.

That purpose has been stated clearly enough to leave no room for misunderstanding:

To make certain for all time that international cooperation must end at the point where the constitutional rights of the American people are endangered.

Sen. Bricker is opposed to any surrender of sovereignty without permission of the American people—in whom resides all sovereignty.

Every American stands with him in that position. They are all equally anxious to protect their sovereignty.

There is no reason why that cannot be done if the individuals and organizations participating in the debate over Sen. Bricker's proposal will concentrate on saving the republic and not on misrepresenting one another's views.

Tax-Time Blues

On still nights for the next few weeks it will be theoretically possible to hear groans of anguish from coast to coast as conscientious citizens struggle with their income taxes before the March 15 deadline.

This is the season for the tax-time blues. . . whadda they do, honey, with all that money, dum-de-dum-da? And the income tax is only the part that shows.

Invisible taxes are just as bad. They are worse in some respects. Take the matter of buying a new automobile, which auto manufacturers are hoping will be done by nearly 6,000,000 purchasers this year.

There would be more than that if the prices of new cars weren't so high. And they wouldn't be so high if it weren't for hidden taxes. Automobile Manufacturers Association points out that in 1952 these actually amounted to 29 per cent of the price of a "low-cost" car delivered at $2,000 to a resident of Michigan. The car itself cost $1,417, and the tax cost $583. In 1939, the corresponding taxes would have been only 14 per cent.

Don't forget invisible taxes while groaning with anguish the next few weeks over the taxes that show.

Atom-Powered Britain

The most exciting use of atom-splitting, in contrast with its most frightening use, is as a source of energy to do men's work. It is of more than passing interest that Britian is announcing officially this week that it now possesses an "atomic industry."

Previously it had announced that it was the world's largest exporter of radioactive-isotopes. From the beginning of research into atomic possibilities, the British have thought of this new source of energy as a replacement for its depleted coal supplies.

Atomic research, in Britain, goes back more than 25 years. The first disintegration of the atom was accomplished by British physicists in 1932. It is on surprise that the British government now is able to claim it is ahead of the United States in the industrial use of atomic energy.

Within its reach, lies limitless energy which can be distributed throughout the British Isles and shared with other members of the Commonwealth. The first successful production of electricity for industrial use with an atomic reactor will be a more significant date than July 16, 1945, when the United States exploded the first atomic bomb.

Britain seems likely to make that announcement, too.

Big Four Talkathon

By David Lawrence

Reds Need Conference for Propaganda Purposes

Just why did the diplomats wrangle for several days on whether the Big Four conference should be held in East or West Berlin?

On the surface, it seems a trivial matter to be arguing about nowadays, but back of it is a significant story which tells a good deal about "cold war" tactics and the way in which the Allies are constantly beset by Communist maneuvers and tricks.

It foretells why the whole four-power conference will be a sham and will reflect only the deliberate effort of the Communists to gain a propaganda advantage.

The Soviet purpose in insisting that at least half of the sessions of the conference be held in East Berlin was to tell the entire Communist world that the Western Allies are coming to Soviet-controlled territory to beg for "peace."

It is essential from the Moscow viewpoint to portray the Allies as craven characters petitioning cessions and surrenders that will give the Communists the kind of "peace" they want.

THE ALLIED negotiators have known all along, of course, the Soviet objective in arguing about the site of the conference, and for a while they stood firm against holding the meetings in Soviet-controlled territory and then proposed a rotation among the four occupied zones, which meant that one in four meetings would be held in East Berlin.

As is the case with such arguments, the Communists theorize that, if they bicker long enough the Allies will become exhausted and finally someone on the Allied side will say: "Well, after all, let's get on with the conference. There's no sense in arguing about a mere meeting place. Let's give them what they want or make a compromise."

The Moscow regime, to be sure, has wanted a four-power conference to be held and, rather than see the conference collapse, would have agreed to have all the meetings held in West Berlin, if the Allies had cared to make a stand on it.

The compromise finally reached provides that the first week's meetings shall be held in West Berlin, the next week's in East Berlin, and the following week's in West Berlin again.

THE CONFERENCE probably will last several weeks, if not months, and it has been left open where the fourth week's sessions will be held.

From the Communist viewpoint, it is imperative to show that the Moscow government is dictating to the Western Allies. The argument about the site offered one way to do it. If, on the other hand, an impression of superiority cannot be attained, then the effort is to achieve at least a position of equality — by rotating the meetings between East and West Berlin.

It will be recalled that, at the time the United Nations organization was first brought into being in San Francisco in the spring of 1945, diplomatic etiquette called for the American secretary of state to preside at the plenary sessions, which were more or less ceremonial anyway. Molotov objected at the outset, and finally somebody discovered that he would agree to a formula whereby each of the four nations would select a chairman who would preside at a different session. So four co-chairmen were chosen.

WHEN IT CAME the turn for Foreign Minister Molotov to preside, he opened the session with a remark substantially as follows:

"I am glad to preside over this session of the United Nations and to be speaking to the world in the Russian language."

National pride was strong, of course, but the evident aim was to convey to the people back home that, even when international meetings are held in the United States, the Soviet foreign minister presides.

The forthcoming four-power conference has been sought by Moscow solely as a propaganda maneuver. The Soviet press will use the occasion to enhance, if it can, the prestige of the Malenkov government.

Unquestionably the Moscow regime lives in fear of an uprising. The recent outbursts in East Germany were hurtful to the prestige of Moscow behind the Iron Curtain.

Originally, the Western Allies insisted that some concrete deeds be manifested by the Soviets before there was a four-power conference. But the Western governments retreated on this.

TO REFUSE to talk with Moscow usually brings criticism much of it inspired by Communists or sympathizers, who argue that the West is intolerant or stubbornly unwilling to "negotiate peace."

Plenty of private organizations and individuals in the Western World echo this same thought, so the American government and the Allied governments find it necessary to keep on talking — though they know nothing can or will come of it.

That's because the Soviets are not ready to give up the victories they think they can get through the "cold war" and by pressing constantly against the over-eager, divided and trade-hungry governments which make up the strange alliance in the West.

The Aim of Education

By TRUMAN TWILL

Getting back to my favorite subject of education, than which there is no whicher, I saved a clipping about a speech made at Columbia University by Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton.

Columbia is celebrating 200 years of existence. By happenstance, its professors have just finished a survey indicating that far too many of its students finish their courses without working very hard.

The professors say more pressure should be applied to their pupils, to make certain they show signs after graduation of having gone to college for some more serious purpose than meeting interesting people.

That was what Dr. Dodds was talking about, too—the purpose of education. Speaking of universities, he said they existed to generate differences of opinion, not to achieve "uniformity of outlook."

He poked a critical finger into the popular assumption that you had a university as soon as you had a certain number of buildings, a certain number of teachers and a certain number of stated aims and requirements.

He said you didn't have a university until you had a spirit of liberal learning diffused through all its parts. When you had that, you had a "great instrumentality for discovering and sharing the truths"—and that was worth having.

It's a long way from bicentennials at Columbia and speeches by educators like Dr. Dodds to the kind of education most of us are concerned with in our daily lives, but there's a straight road from one to the other.

As the president of Denison College pointed out recently, higher educators are licked before they start if no one has stirred up the intellectual curiosity of the young while they are in public school systems.

There is more to education than knowing how to read, write and figure. The fourth R stands for Responsibility in a Republic.

It would be a rare soul who hadn't dreamed of being a teacher sometime, not for money that isn't in it or the prestige that doesn't go with teaching any more, but for the opportunity of seeing an occasional pupil come to life and start using his brain.

The only difference between seeing it happen in a public-school classroom and a classroom in some great university is the frequency with which it can happen in the university. There the stragglers already have fallen by the wayside. There is nothing left but a hard core of ability, whose potentialities are going to be realized or not according to individual determination.

An individual can come to life intellectually without formal education but education helps, if it's the right kind of education. Unfortunately, there is no absolute formula. Educators must improvise, which in itself is part of education. Sometimes their ideas work, sometimes they don't.

The time to worry is when there begins to be "uniformity of outlook"—when people all begin to say the same things. There are Americans these days who think that is really the aim of education—to make people to be the same. Maybe in a dictatorship. But not in a republic.

Just hand me that chalk, Wilbur, and teacher will draw a diagram to show why differences of opinion make horse races and freedom.

Seriously Wounded

Bricker Compromise Not Impossible

By Raymond Moley

A careful examination of the President's remarks at his press conference on last Wednesday offers no substantial basis for claims by opponents of the Bricker Amendment that he will fight any limitations on his actions in making treaties and executive agreements. In fact, in what he said there is plenty of room for compromise.

Despite this, an important and influential New York paper headlines the President's remarks in this way: "President to Fight Treaty Curb Plan in Leadership Test."

THE STORY which follows begins with this sentence: "President Eisenhower has told his official family that he is unalterably opposed to the Bricker Amendment restricting the treaty - making powers of the President and is ready to stake his leadership on the issue."

Further down in the story and still on the front page is an editor's parenthetical statement that at a Columbia University conference "Noel T. Baker, professor of Constitutional Law at Columbia" read a paper against the Bricker Amendment.

There is no such person at Columbia University. There is a Noel T. Dowling who, according to the same paper, did read such a paper.

THE PRESIDENT'S position apparently is somewhere between the present text of the Bricker Amendment and the determination of the State Department that there shall be no change in the present arrangements regarding treaties and executive agreements.

The President flatly said in his press conference that he would not object at all to a "statement," which presumably means an amendment, "which said that any treaty, or any other executive or any kind of international agreement that contravened any Article of our Constitution should be null and void . . ."

Then he rather vaguely said that he did not want to go back to the Articles of Confederation, wherein any individual state could repudiate a treaty.

THIS IS a point on which compromise is possible, because if he will agree, as he said he would, to Section 1 of the Bricker Amendment, such matters would become subject to judicial review.

The fact is that Bricker and the President in several conferences have discussed the matter, and Bricker is not at all pessimistic about a compromise satisfactory to both.

The real irreconcilable opposition comes from people in the State Department who do not want any limitation on their powers to shackle the internal economy of the United States with socialistic international agreements.

In those agreements and not in big formal treaties lie the real dangers which the supporters of some kind of amendment wish to check.

A New Service Academy

By MARK DANA

It was inevitable when the U.S. Air Force separated, about the time World War II ended, from the Army (where it had been a step-child Army Air Corps) that as a fully independent service arm it would get all that was coming to it, in full parity with the Army and the Navy.

As a matter of fact, the Air Force has become the fair-haired boy of the armed services, enjoying more leeway, more appropriations, more autonomy day after day. True, it has had good reasons to be favored. It has delivered the goods, literally and figuratively, and its tremendous potential defense competences are as credible as they are dramatic.

The Air Force is now due to have its own academy, corresponding to the Army's West Point and the Navy's Annapolis. This, too, was predicted all along. There are hints it will be located at Randolph Field, Tex., where thousands of fledgling pilots for World War II took their basic flight training, but with six states competing for the location the selection will not be announced very soon.

The Air Force now operates the Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., and of course every one of its bases scattered over the U. S. is a training school. The chief solicitude of the Air Force is to get pilots; its air cadet recruitment program is one of the nation's most vocal activities. Yet for many years, quality rather than quantity has been the criterion, and of many called for a trial few are chosen to handle the increasingly faster and more complicated fighting ships.

The small proportion of West Point graduates who become Air Force officers helps little to meet the demand, and it rather galls the proud Air Force anyhow to have any dealings with the Army. The Air Force will get a lot of prestige, at least, from its new academy, and of course by allowing congressmen to appoint cadets the Air Force will get a splendid political tool.

Presumably, the new academy will train all its cadets who are not pilot material into good supply, administrative, technical and liaison officers—making sure, of course, that they come out of the school polished gentlemen filled to their ears with fine traditions.

The academy may cost up to $500 million ($125 is the minimum estimate) but big money figures like this don't scare the Air Force.

Target Practice

Astronomers now figure it is 42 quintillion miles to one of the nebulae in ursa major, or four times farther than had been estimated before, using an old telescope and turning off U. S. 40 three miles past the schoolhouse.

Huge, hairy, apelike creatures with long sharp teeth and mustaches reaching to their waists are reported from Malaya, presumably by a talent scout for American wrestling promoters.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Rev. Jeremiah Sutton, for many years pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church in LaRue, was born Dec. 10, 1847, in Hamilton County, the youngest in a family of six children. A school teacher in his early days, he was ordained in the ministry in 1874. In 1890 he was appointed chaplain of the Ohio State Penitentiary, a post he held for almost two years. He later was engaged to preach for congregations at the Morral, Grand Prairie, Big Island and Union churches. In order to do this he was obliged to preach three sermons every Sunday and in driving from place to place, covered a distance of 12 miles. He continued this for three years, resigning his pastorate to accept a call to preach at LaRue. Upon leaving his work at the state penitentiary. Rev. Sutton organized what was known as the Ohio Penitentiary Sunday school and through his association had 84 conversions.

The Once Over

Sympathies to Queen Elizabeth

Queen, each morn you rise and sally
Forth in pattern Rand-McNally;
Every day salutes and marches,
Tribal dances, aching arches;
Comes the dawn: the routine's calling
For more ordeals most appalling;
Schedules daily seeming tougher—
Queen, for England how you suffer!

II

Rituals and ceremonies. . .
Tribal folk who scorn all "Tonys". . .
Station stops at intersections. . .
More salutes and more inspections!
Every morning, sun or rain,
Sighing, "Here we go again!". . .
Frenzied steps to get thenews off . . .
(Queen, it's great to get your SHOES OFF!)

In an age of queer happenings, there is nothing extra amazing in that case in St. Louis where a manufacturer had his plant struck and picketed by his wife and son.

We trust he understood it all. . .They loved the guy and were just trying to broaden his economic attitude through a public demonstration of distrust. They didn't want to hurt daddy beyond a point where he was made to seem a big heel.

Popper built the business, but mommer and sonny boy were not satisfied with what they got out of it and there was nothing to do but strike, tie up the plant and get the old man on the front pages all over the nation as Mr. Scrooge.

It may be a prediction of things to come. "Mom, I'm working too hard for daddy. I think I'll strike," says a son. "Okay," says mother, "I guess I'll go out in sympathy. We must have unity." "We will need banners and a chant," says sonny boy. "Something like this. 'Daddy is a tyrant low;. we think the pubic ought to know.' "

"I have a better chant," says mumsie. "It runs like this: 'Down with bosses vile, mean guys! Wives and kiddies all, arise!' "

"We've got to make an example of husbands and fathers who get into business for themselves and want to run things the way they think best," says sonny boy.

"You let the old man get the idea we are with him in his fight for success and there's no telling where it can lead," admits mother. "I suppose, nevertheless, we should both remember that he's your father."

"Down with fathers!"

"Very well. Down with husbands! Forward for industrial democracy, more pay and less work!"

"Have you got a picket banner?"

"We can get one from Mrs. Simpson next door."

"No, we can't. She and the six kids are down picketing Mr. Simpson's shop."

-:-

If cases of this type reach mediation boards it will be great stuff on TV. All previous fight programs will seem tame. Fancy pop on one side of the table and the wife and sonny boy on the other.

Dulles To Meet With Molotov On Atomic Pool

U.S. Secretary Seeks Early Agreement on Lining Up Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles was preparing today to thresh out with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov how to talk over the U. S. proposal to pool atomic energy resources for peaceful purposes.

Dulles met a second time yesterday with Russian Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin. Afterward, the State Department announced the next talks would be between Dulles and Molotov at Berlin.

Seeking Early Agreement

It seemed clear that Dulles, who flies to Berlin tomorrow, was pressing for early agreement on when, how and where full-scale atoms-for-peace talks can be held.

His two meetings with Zarubin, on Jan. 11 and yesterday, appeared to be the curtain raiser to more precise conversation with Molotov.

President Eisenhower suggested the talks in a United Nations address Dec. 8. He said they should be private and should be aimed at creating an agency which, under U. N. auspices, would handle atomic materials and knowledge for peaceful uses, such as in medicine and electric power generation.

Russia, the United States, Britain and other atomic powers would contribute to this pool.

Solution Sought

The goal back of the plan is to seek, through this indirect approach, a solution to the deadlocked atomic armaments dispute. Russia, in agreeing to the discussions, suggested a better way would be for nations with atomic weapons to sign a compact outlawing their use.

Dulles repeated yesterday that this angle can be explored. He told his news conference it was not outside the scope of his expected procedural talks with Molotov at Berlin.

Dulles said yesterday he does not expect to get into the substance of Eisenhower's proposal. He said that would take a lot of technical experts and he was not taking any such staff to Berlin.

Truckers

temporary injunction yesterday afternoon.

Their spokesman, Atty. Joseph B. Keenan of Washington, said:

"This is a situation in which without a restraining order, the operation may be a success but the patient may well be dead . . . . Unless these (truck) operators are relieved of paying this tax, they will be driven out of business—and shortly."

Edmund Brady of Detroit, representing the truckers, said the case would be carried all the way to the United States Supreme Court if necessary. He contends the Ohio tax is illegal because Ohio collects through it more than it is entitled to.

'No Basis for Action'

Joseph S. Gill, first assistant Ohio attorney general, said he could see no basis for a federal action. Truckers who feel they shouldn't have to pay the tax can object to the state tax appeals board after the tax commissioner has made a finding for non-payment, he said.

In their complaint, the truckers said the tax threatens a breakdown of the country's interstate trucking industry. They contend the tax imposes "prohibitory operating costs" on motor carriers with serious effects on consumer prices and the national economy.

Congress Highlights

House Takes Up Bill on Air Academy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force's dream of a separate academy of its own comes a step closer as the House takes up its bill.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders predict quick passage for the administration-approved measure, the first major House legislation of the new year.

Seaway—Senators gird for a possible night session after Sen. Morse (R-Ind) blocks an agreement to limit debate on a bill to allow U. S. participation in building a St. Lawrence seaway. Seaway supporters report Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), until now an opponent, may switch to their side.

Un-American — A tussle within the House Un-American Activities Committee waxes hotter with a charge by its senior Democrat, Rep. Walter of Pennsylvania, that Chairman Velde (R-Ill) broke congressional rules in firing Louis J Russell, his top staff investigator, before a special subcommittee had made a report.

Cotton — Senate - House conferees dicker over differences between Senate-and House - passed bills to boost acreage allotments for cotton farmers in 1954.

Bricker amendment — Georgia's Sen. George, taking a leading role for the Democrats in the dispute over a proposed constitutional amendment on treaty powers, urges Republicans to put their differing views on it to a Senate vote, GOP Leader Knowland of California has no compromise yet that is acceptable to both administration forces and the backers of Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), but says he hasn't given up hope.

Postal — Key senators on the Post Office Committee say Postmaster General Summerfield may get the 240-million-dollar postal rate boost he wants, but it may also be offset by congressional approval of a 200-million-dollar pay hike for postal workers.

Amendment

it, although I don't consider it as signifiicant nor as harmful as some others seem to think it is."

George predicted that on a test, a majority of the Senate would vote to strip out the disputed clause and thus make the proposed treaty power amendment more palatable to Eisenhower. Democratic votes are likely to decide the question.

Revising the proposal on the Senate floor requires only a majority vote. Passage of a constitutional amendment, in both Senate and House, takes a two-thirds majority of those present. Then three-fourths of the states must ratify it to make it effective.

Knowland said in a separate interview he isn't going to make up his mind about any Senate test until he sees whether further conferences produce some kind of agreement with Bricker.

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, also expressed confidence an understanding can be reached.

Knowland and Ferguson have authored a proposed substitute which would provide that future treaties made "pursuant" to the Constitution should become the supreme law of the land.

Knowland said this would require treaties and presidential executive agreements to conform with the Constitution, but would not contain the controversial clause to which Eisenhower objected.

George said that as he reads it, the substitute would make it possible to challenge the constitutionality of treaties in courts and would make them clearly subject to repeal by Congress.

Knowland said he believes that the basic design for an agreement with Bricker has been found in the substitute, although Bricker said it is not satisfactory to him in its present form.

Fire in Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—An explosion and fire in a downtown automobile firm last night caused $250,000 damage. Fire Chief Willard Compton said. Fire swept out of control for about three hours after an explosion in the Ripley, Inc., tire recapping department. Ten new cars were destroyed. Nineteen older ones were removed undamaged from the repair department.

Forest R. Ripley, owner of the Springfield firm, is the father of Okey Ripley, owner of the Ripley Motor Co., here, Dodge-Plymouth dealers, at 646 N. Main St. Mr. Ripley had been in operation at the same place in Springfield for the past 25 yers as a Dodge-Plymouth dealer and was known as the largest independent dealer in the state.

Holbrock, 50, speeding, posted bond for appearance in Municipal Court; Damon R. Almendinger, 46, 489 S. contractual, lease, and joint salary arrangements.

"With this action, Alleghany Corp. and Mr. Young and Mr. Kirby are completely divesting themselves of control of C&O and are free to acquire control of another carrier," the C&O announced. "Mr. Young and Mr. Kirby and other Alleghany directors and officers are now free to seek or accept directorships on another carrier."

Issues Statement

Alleghany Corp. then issued the following brief statement:

"Alleghany Corp., Allan P. Kirby and Robert R. Young have become substantial stockholders of New York Central."

The extent of Young's present holdings of New York Central stock could not be learned immediately.

The C&O owns—or did own yesterday—800,000 shares of Central stock, 12½ per cent of the outstanding common. But this big interest is now separate and distinct from whatever amount Young and his associates control.

The C&O and the Alleghany Corp.—the "Young interests" then—obtained working control of the New York Central as early as 1947. But they were forbidden from exercising it by the Interstate Commerce Commission in a move against interlocking railroad directorates. The Central stock was deposited in voting trusts.

Young, aided by Woolworth heir Kirby and with a "shoestring" investment of three million dollars, took control of the 900-million-dollar Alleghany Corp. in 1937 and, in turn, more than a billion dollars worth of railroad facilities.

He rebuilt the bankrupt Van Sweringen railroad empire during the subsequent 10 stormy years of railroad operation. It was in 1947 that Alleghany bought 162,500 shares of New York Central at a reported price of 2½ million dollars.

he may have his driving rights restored during this period.

The other pedestrian injured was William O. Nippert, 76, of 320 Lafayette St. He was struck by a car driven by Quintin Hefferman, 34, of 231 St. James St. at S. State and E. Pleasant Sts. at 7:52 p.m. yesterday.

Taken to City Hospital he was treated for a cut on his head and released.

Unavoidable

Hefferman told police he was driving north on S. State St. and applied his brakes and attempted to swerve to the right to miss the man but was unable to avoid the mishap. Police reported neither Hefferman nor witnesses knew which direction Nippert was crossing the street.

The remaining three accidents were all of the fender bender variety. A car driven by Charles E. Faine, 26, of 424 Oak St. and a taxi driven by Elisha J. Robinson, 28, of 419 Waterloo St. collided at W. Center and Waterloo Sts. at 12:21 p.m. yesterday.

Other two accidents occurred an hour apart in an alley beside Carl's Auto Parts on N. Main St. At 3:54 p.m. a car owned by James M. Jones, 59, of 530 Polk St. stopped in the alley was struck by a truck driven by Herald E. Fremont, 59, of near Marion. At 4:55 p.m. cars driven by Glenna F. Schuler of 370 Mary St. and Clarence Cummins, 56, of near LaRue collided in approximately the same location in the alley just west of N. Main St.

Truck Leaves Highway

A farm truck driven by Charles Kominek, 26, of near Portage was slightly damaged in the one accident investigated by the Marion post of the state highway patrol.

The accident occurred at 3:45 p.m. yesterday on Route 23, about four and one-half miles south of Marion. According to the patrol, Kominek had pulled off to the side of the highway and in attempting to pull back on skidded in the mud striking a fence post owned by Herman Mautz of near Marion.

COOKING TIP

SCHROON LAKE, N. Y. (UP)—Two hunters have a tip for the cook who is out of milk. Luke Pangburn and Chuck Kodesch of Yates Village found they had neither milk nor pure water when they started breakfast pancakes on a recent trip. So they used bottled carbonated water instead. The two said there was only one disappointment — the carbonated water didn't have enough pep to flip the cakes when they were done on one side.

Chinese

American trenches, killing and being killed.

This morning, laughing and smiling, they climbed into big American trucks—yelling and chattering like boys on the last day of school—while ROK army bands played them on.

At the Chinese check point, America's highest ranking officers in the Far East were there in person, waving and smiling at each truckload of departing Chinese.

They were Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens, here for a brief visit; Gen. John E. Hull, U.N. supreme commander; Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of the 8th Army, and a score of lesser generals.

The Chinese and North Koreans themselves—all of them combat veterans—swung along in columns of six abreast singing and waving small South Korean or Nationalist China flags.

The Chinese climbed aboard their canvas-topped trucks for the chilly ride to Ascom City, the big Army camp four miles east of Inchon. Along the way they stopped for tea brewed by a special crew of Americans.

In Seoul, the rolling convoys of 16 trucks each got an ovation. Chinese clambered aboard the LSTs that will carry them to Formosa.

At the Korean exit point, just west of the place where the Chinese came out, long trains of steel boxcars stood waiting where the old Pusan-to-Mukden Railway cuts the demilitarized zone.

The North Koreans climbed aboard, 50 to a car, and trains steamed out as the prisoners shouted and cheered from the open doors.

POWs

Stevens, here for the prisoner transfer; said any of the 21 Americans who asks for repatriation before midnight Friday would be welcome to return home.

Under Allied interpretation of the Korean armistice all unrepatriated war prisoners are to be freed as civilians at midnight Friday. The Communists wanted them kept in custody until a peace conference decides their future.

The first of 14,321 anti-Communist Chinese prisoners returned to the U. N. Wednesday were sped to Ascom City by truck. Then they boarded U. S. landings ships in nearby Inchon harbor and were scheduled to sail for Formosa early Thursday.

The voyage will take about four days.

Gen. John E. Hull, U. N. Far East commander, said they would become civilians at midnight Friday whether or not they are on the high seas or still in Korea.

Trainloads of North Korean prisoners moved southward toward the ROK army post at Kunsan where they will be held until midnight Friday.

As darkness fell, U. S. troops moved huge searchlights into position along the south border of the neutral zone to guide the returning prisoners.

The Chinese and North Koreans set some prison enclosures afire before beginning their march. A pall of smoke from burning tents hung over the Panmunjom area.

The prisoners sang and cheered as they crossed the line. They carried anti-Communist banners and Republic of Korea and Nationalist China flags.

One group was headed by a drum and bugle corps of about 30 Chinese prisoners. They played handmade drums and bugles painstakingly fashioned from beer cans and scraps of metal.

LANDLOCKED ATOM SUB. The first atomic submarine engine, built into a land-based submarine hull, was generating power when this overhead view was made at the National Reactor Testing Station in Idaho. The engine section is immersed in a sea tank about 50 feet in diameter and almost 40 feet high to simulate actual operating conditions. The nuclear power plant, designed and built by Westinghouse Electric Corp., is a prototype of the engine in the USS Nautilus, first atom submarine scheduled to be launched Thursday at Groton, Connecticut. This is one of a series of photos just released by Westinghouse.

Kidnapers

Moskovitz himself said Lear kept muttering " 'Didn't know it was to be this kind of a job or I wouldn't have gone into it.' "

"Jackson seemed to be the leader," Moskovitz said.

"Lear had ideas of his own but he had to get the okay on everything from Jackson."

Ahern questioned Lear's story of being duped into the kidnaping. He said earlier actions by the two indicated Lear knew what was up. Ahern said Lear and Jackson bought chains, ropes, flashlights and other gear in San Jose two days before the kidnaping for use in the job.

Was Left Alone

He also pointed out that Lear made ransom calls and was often left alone in the house and could have left at any time.

Jackson, a tall, erect man with a constant sneer, disagreed with Lear on about everything, said Inspector Don Scott. He reported Jackson denied much of Lear's story, disputed other parts and agreed with some.

The case began Saturday morning when Moskovitz was lured from his real estae office on a phoney real estate prospect.

He said Jackson took him to a residential district house supposedly to meet Jackson's brother-in-law and then shoved him into a chair and told him he was kidnaped. Moskovitz said Jackson held a razor-sharp knife on him but did not harm him.

Ohio Edison Co. Awards $30,000,000 Bond Issue

Alternatives

By George Sokolsky

When any president of the United States delivers a message to Congress or delivers a major speech, the editorial response must be immediate. We in the newspapers and the hurried men on radio are required by our trades to set forth immediate reactions. It is one of the travails of a free society.

SOKOLSKY

To ponder, to investigate, to wonder—these take time, and taking time is rejected as laziness, of not meeting "dead-lines." Indeed, often the lines are really dead, because history plays havoc with small episodes, leaving not even a toe-print on the sands of time.

This is to be a critical session of Congress. As a result of its legislative progress and its effect upon the economy of the nation, we shall either restore a sound, modified capitalistic economy under a mixed Republican-conservative-Democratic management, or we shall have a depression and the socialists will come to power in 1954 under the guise of the Left-Wing Democrats and the ADA.

THIS ALTERNATIVE faces the United States, no matter what the happy well-wishers who love a phrase such as "middle-of-the-road" say.

Critical moments in history are never in the middle of anything. They are the outburst of a proletariat which wearies of paying the price of errors.

The burden in the past has normally fallen on the peasants; in our society, it falls most heavily on the industrial workers who too often own nothing but their legal rights. They possess no homes, no farms to produce food, no tools. In our society, they usually possess no skills and have only their time to sell.

Thus, from 1929 to 1939, the United States faced the devilish spectre of 10,000,000 unemployed, to be solved only by war. Whatever the politics or the morality of war, it absorbed the unemployed, produced a labor scarcity, gave the unions the opportunity to make demands which reduced the efficiency of the worker but got him more pay and better conditions.

IT ALSO PRODUCED more taxes, debased the dollar, loaded the country with debt, created a class-conscious urban proletariat where none existed before.

For the United States, it was a turn in history, from a society as it developed since 1609, to a society as it has been altering since 1929.

This is the problem of President Eisenhower, and his course will not be an easy one. The state of the union message is a challenging document because it sets a program for arresting the disintegration of a society.

It is stated in political terms and therefore will receive a political response.

In moral terms, it would have been better understood by the American people, who, in their bewilderment, are looking for a Moses to take them back over the Jordan out of the confusions of Egypt.

NO ONE who seeks it can, however, miss the moral note in the Eisenhower message and what to the hurried seemed like compromises are the halts in a steady march toward a restoration of the leadership of an idea in American life—the idea of individual dignity and self-reliance.

Those who believe that this is a smooth road to drive over in one of those low-slung fancy modern cars do not see the rocks.

It is a road that leads to all sorts of "four-corners," unmarked and confusing. A wrong turning is so easy, and, on this road, often attractive.

-:-

ONE WRONG turn can lead miles away from where one wants to go. And maybe, in the end, it does not pay to go back. The sun has set. It is too late.

President Eisenhower needs not only courage but philosophy, a sense not of his place in history but of his country's role in civilization.

His unhurried approach to problems, his refusal to act until he has, as he calls it, been briefed on the subject, his search for the facts and his avoidance of pressures may help him to meet the challenge of his moment in the affairs of man. But the decision is not really his; it rests in whatever is the majority of the Congress.

Nixon Scores

By Victor Riesel

Dick Nixon actually is making policy in the White House on the labor front.

Strangely enough, the man who took the most terrific lambasting from the labor leaders in the '52 presidential campaign was the very one who, last week, convinced President Eisenhower and a reluctant cabinet to woo labor with a special message easing the Taft-Hartley law. It was strictly a politcal tactic which threw the vice-president behind the pressure from the so-called Governor Dewey-Sherman Adams bloc in the White House.

RIESEL

Nixon argued with the entire cabinet and finally reversed its opposition to a special presidential message on labor. His point was that any modification of the much debated law would help Republican congressmen win re-election in the big cities this fall, even if the National Assn. of Manufacturers was granted several of its demands.

Nixon would have hit it right if someone hadn't written in the controversial section about a government-conducted vote on all strikes. Now he's working to straighten out this mess.

IT HAS NOT yet been reported that those who wrote the strike vote suggestion into Ike's message did so with an eye on the country's women.

Here is the reasoning behind it: The biggest block of indignant and independent voters today are the ladies. They generally hate strikes. It hits their household pocketbooks. So the strategists figured that in the event of a long, two or three-month deadlock, or even just before the men voluntarily cut themselves off from payrolls, there ought to be an opportunity for the wives to say, "Can't you vote to go back?" or "Can't you vote to stay at work?"

The White House planners believed that the women would think this a good move by Eisenhower and would make friends on the distaff side.

There were other reasons, of course, but don't underestimate the belief in the power of the women in the thinking of those who got up this one.

Don't underestimate John L. Lewis either. He wants to prove his power on the waterfront. First, let me tell you why: The Mine Workers Union itself is losing ground.

This is unprecedented, but the coal industry is so hard hit that many operators are fighting off John L.'s unionizing drives, which they never would have done in better times. For example, Lewis tried for 15 months to unionize the Elk River Coal and Lumber Co. in Widen, W.Va.

It was a rough one. A railroad bridge leading to the mine was dynamited. So were electric power stations. Company buildings were burned. A coaldigger was shot to death. Others were beaten. Last month, after 37 pickets were indicted by a federal grand jury, Lewis pulled out his men.

AT ABOUT the same time he backed up the New York Longshoremen's Union, ousted from the AFL on racketeering charges. Now he feels his waterfront men must prove that they have power, or he'll junk them. After a long discussion in his headquarters last Wednesday, the tough old International Longshoremen's Assn. hit on a strategy to deaden the world's greatest port — without a longshoremen's strike.

The ILA's president, Capt. Bradley, also controls the huge port's Tug Boat Union. This outfit's contract with the tug boat owners expires on Jan. 31.

The tugboat workers plan to strike if by that time Bradley's union hasn't been recognized as the official dockside union. No tugs, no harbor life — no oil, no coal, no cargo. All is dead. The entire eastern half of the U.S. can be affected.

WITH THE SOVIET Army controlling Russia, the underground apparatus in the U.S. (and all non-Communist countires) has been ordered to pay less attention to propaganda and more to the building of tiny industrial cells in the heart of our great plants.

With professional soldiers in control, Moscow now is more intereste in slowing our armament production by seeping its agents into such well guarded plants as General Electric, Bell Aircraft, W.Va., Ohio, Illinois power installations (especially around atomic and hydrogen bomb plants) and Texas oil centers.

The big debate over trade with the Russians is slightly academic now. The State Department has just lifted its foreign shipments ban from some highly strategic materials — such as combat vehicles, photographic and projection goods, scientific, professional and electrical apparatus — and even some new amphibian combat vehicles, armored cars and carriers, high speed cameras, some cathode-ray tubes and supersonic generators.

True, you need Commerce Department licences. But that's no trouble. And if you want to ship to Canada, you need no licenses at all.

Result: the stuff is sent there and trans-shipped, as simply as you ship toy trains.

THE COST of jailing Soviet agents is high. The U.S. spent slightly over $1,000,000 to convict just 12 Communist leaders, the second stringers led by Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, in the Southern District of New York when Myles Lane was U.S. Attorney.

There is bitter anger inside labor's highest circles over the Soviets' insensate cruelty revealed in their shipment by box car of 10,000 Jews from Eastern Europe to Siberian slave labor camps.

The AFL's international representatives have all the data — having gotten it out of Eastern Germany.

The horror of this is heightened, if that's possible, by the fact that these men and women had homes and jobs waiting for them in Israel.

The Russians would not permit them to emigrate. Soviet anti-Semitism has been revived by the traditionally anti-Jewish Red Army.

Capital Diary

By Hal Boyle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaves from a capital visitor's diary:

The Republicans took power politically in the nation's capital a year ago, but socially they haven't been able to knock the Democrats off the ramparts.

The Democrats refused to don sackcloth and ashes after their defeat. This has led to some grumbling that under the Eisenhower regime the minority party leadership party members, gay as jaybirds, still rule the social scene. Certainly it is true that few have retired to hermitages.

One disgruntled lady, who obviously regards Democrats as irresponsible grasshoppers and Republicans as earnest ants, wrote to a local newspaper:

"Why aren't they (the Republicans) throwing more and better shindigs with gin, orchids, mink and caviar?. . .They have taken over the serious side of running our government and are not so concerned over entertainment and the social whirl.

"Let the Democrats dominate the scene; that's one of the reasons they were relieved of power."

Another lady, perhaps more neutral in her politics, told me:

"This should be one of the most active seasons socially since before the war. The biggest difference I have noticed under the present administration is that the parties are smaller and more formal."

But nobody in a responsible post foresees an early doom to that famous institution—the Washington cocktail party.

The recipe for one of these is:

Take 50 assorted politicians, military leaders, diplomats and their wives; garnish well with bourbon, scotch, gin and sherry; season with assorted canapes. Let stand on one foot for two hours in crowded, smoke-filled living room while airing political views and exchanging inside information on government; host then opens front door, pours the whole group into the night, takes aspirin and goes to bed.

If all has gone well, the host later should receive at least five invitations to attend similar parties. The main thing is not to vary the recipe by introducing ribald old party games such as postoffice or pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey

The exodus of Democrats and the reduction in the number of federal employes here is solving the Washington housing shortage.

You no longer have to trade a landlord a key to Fort Knox in order to get a key to an apartment.

One lady told me there were five vacancies in her building. Before he could even move into an apartment he had leased, a newcomer here was given a new lease by his landlord cutting his rent $13 a month.

The falling federal payroll has many businessmen worried. An organization of 100 small firms has started a campaign to lure new industries here in an attempt to make the Washington area less dependent on Uncle Sam's paychecks.

Hurdles to be cleared are the lack of trained factory labor here and antiquated zoning laws. Naturally, many of the older residents don't want the Washington Monument to be mistaken for a smokestack.

Best - anecdote-I-heard-in-Washington: An elderly public servant here retired after 49 years on the same government payroll.

But soon his wife complained she found him underfoot whenver she tried to do a household chore.

"I told my husband he should have rounded out a full 50 years before quitting," she confided to a neighbor. "But you know him—always so impetuous."

Insurance Women Help Solve Men's Problems

BOSTON (UP) — Two young Greater Boston women travel up to 25,000 miles a year, telling men how to operate their business.

After "boning up" on economic statistics, they go off separately to cities throughout the United States to face a barrage of questions fired at them by insurance officials and salesmen.

The young women, Eunice Fitzgerald and Katherine McCarthy, have been doing their unusual job since 1947. They study a mass of data in the home office of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. here until they are mines of information about a particular area. Then they travel to the branch office there and help solve whatever problem is troubling the manager.

Cocktail Frankfurters: Dip cocktail frankfurters in batter; drain and fry in hot deep fat (375 degrees F.) 2 to 3 minutes.

Pappy, 55, is a rivet heater on the project. The bride-to-be is Mrs. Mary Varnell, 52, an Alamosa, Colo., widow.

Galion Council Sets Salaries, New City Posts

GALION — Measures passed by Galion City Council Tuesday night principally pertained to setting the new administration in motion, and established positions verifying the appointments made earlier this month by Mayor Francis C. Schalip.

Ordinances establishing new positions in the city and setting the rate of pay were passed by suspending the rules and giving them second and third readings. They are as follows: the establishment of the position of superintendent of light and power, with salary of $495 per month, payable semi-monthly, and bond of $1,000; the establishment of the position of superintendent of water distribution, at a salary of $395 per month; and the position of superintendent of water treatment plant, filtration plant, sewage disposal plant, and Heise Park swimming pool physical equipment, at a salary of $415 per month.

These positions have been filled by appointment made by Mayor Schalip. The position of superintendent of utilities, at a salary of $700 per month, and a clerk in his office at $200 per month, were abandoned by Mayor Schalip when he took office. Councilmen explained that even though the positions of superintendents which were established by ordinance last night provide for increases in salary of two of the men over what their former positions paid, that overall increases still represent a saving of $535 to the city on the superintendent of utilities job and clerk hire.

Another ordinance, passed after the rules were suspended, amends previous ordinance 2844, passed Oct. 4, 1949, setting the salary of Superintendent of Galion City Hospital, and fixes the new salary at $458 per month, and bond of the superintendent at $1,000.

Councilmen also authorized purchase of two half-ton trucks for the city in another ordinance. The ordinance authorizes the service director to advertise for bids and enter into contract for purchase of a new truck, either 1953 or 1954 model for the water distribution department, and another truck of the same description, for use by the water treatment plant, filtration plant, sewage disposal plant and Heise park swimming pool physical equipment.

Two other ordinances, passed by suspending the rules, prohibits the abandonment of ice boxes and refrigerators, no longer in use, in places accessible to children, and authorizes the service director to purchase 4.960 acres of land, priced at $1,166, part of the Powers estate property, which was purchased late last year as a site for water storage for the city. The additional land gives the city access to the entire tract. The land is south of the New York Central Railroad tracks on W. Railroad St., near the city water filtration plant.

Mayor Schalip commended the new service-safety director, Floyd Steffee, in the performance of his duties. The mayor's appointment of Kenneth Shaffer, Mansfield, as city engineer, on the same basis as he has been serving, was approved by Council.

Religious Crusade Sets Church Night

Church Night will be observed at the union Spiritual Victory Crusade service at Epworth Methodist Church tonight with delegations from the various co-operating churches and their pastors given recognition.

The sermon theme presented by Rev. Charles Taylor will be "Why the Church?" Colored moving pictures of the Canadian inland waterways, taken by the evangelist, will be shown.

On Thursday night, pictures in color of the 1954 Rose Parade at Pasadena, Calif., will be shown, and Friday night will be Music Night with a concert of piano numbers given by Rev. Laurie Taylor. The nightly services sponsored by the Marion County Ministerial Association will continue through Jan. 25.

Cooperation Urged in March on Polio

IN A JOINT proclamation issued today, Mayor Harold F. Robinson and County Commissioner Howard McCurdy designated Thursday, Jan. 28 as Mother's March on Polio Day in Marion and Marion County.

The two officials and leaders of the polio campaign are pictured in Mayor Robinson's office after signing the proclamation. Standing left to right are: Bert Freed, co-chairman of the March of Dimes; Howard McCurdy, county commissioner; Gordon Bruun, city - county coordinator, and Jay H. Maish Jr., chairman of the polio drive.

Stressing the need for cooperation from every citizen, young and old, the mayor and commissioner pointed out that the cumulative effect of the past five years of record polio incidence has so increased the financial obligations of the March of Dimes in providing care and treatment, that it is up to everyone to contribute every penny possible to assure the continuation of this vital program.

"The Mothers' March on Polio", they said, "will offer the final opportunity to contribute to the 1954 March of Dimes, thus proving our determination to protect our children from the polio scourge and to care for those who fall victims to the dread disease which has struck at many of our local boys and girls." This last was in reference to the 29 cases of polio suffered by young citizens of Marion and Marion County in 1953 plus 25 cases from previous years still requiring care.

This year, the Mothers' March will start at 7 p.m. Jan. 28. At that time, the two officials urged that all porch lamps be lighted in every home in our city and county to let it be known that a marcher is invited to call for a donation to the March of Dimes in order that its great humanitarian program may be maintained with renewed vigor.

Taking part in this climax to the 1954 March of Dimes campaign will be more than 1,500 volunteer workers who will ring door bells and collect donations from all citizens who wish to contribute.

Protestant Group Joins Attack on 'The French Line'

NEW YORK (AP)—A powerful Protestant church group has joined the attack on Howard Hughes' movie "The French Line."

The Christian Herald magazine and the Protestant Motion Picture Council's National Reviewing Group said yesterday in a joint statement that the movie is "an offense to all decent people both on the grounds of morals and plain good taste."

The council says it speaks for 48 million American Protestants.

The Roman Catholic National Legion of Decency on Monday put the film in its "condemned" classification.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the magazine, said both the publication and the council oppose any relaxing of the present motion picture code. Dr. Poling added:

"To me and to most of the churchmen of my faith, the case of 'The French Line' is indication enough that the code does not need any revising downward but rather a more rigid application of the industry's self-censoring determination."

May Pay Off

Renewed Unity in South Is Target of Democrats

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Holland (D-Fla) said today there are signs of a new unity between Southern Democrats and national party leaders which should pay off in the November elections involving control of Congress.

Holland, who led a group of Southern senators in boycotting a midsummer party rally at Chicago last year, said he is joining fully in preparations for a party meeting scheduled at Miami Beach, Fla., March 6.

Adlai To Speak

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla) said in a statement former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, is expected to be the main speaker. Party members from Southeastern states will attend.

Holland said in an interview he believes conditions have changed materially since he said he would not attend the 1953 Chicago rally because he didn't believe it would benefit the South.

"I think the attitude of the national party leadership is decidedly more considerate to the South now than it was at that time," Holland declared. "I feel the signs are encouraging for better cooperation within the party than they have been in months."

Changes Tune

Stevenson lost four Southern states to Eisenhower in the 1952 elections. He had taken a stand in favor of civil rights legislation. In this connection, Holland said he was pleased by Stevenson's statements on a visit to Atlanta late last year.

"He said at Atlanta that the South had made more significant progress in the field of solving civil rights problems than had any other part of the nation," Holland said. "That is different alk from some that we heard in 1952.

"I think that with give and take a satisfactory program can be worked out this issue. We Southerners can't expect to have our views followed 100 per cent but we're getting tired of the other side's insistence on having their views adopted 100 per cent.

"We ought to be willing to meet halfway any sincere efforts at reconciliation, and I feel that those efforts are being made."

Loyalty Oath 'Buried'

Holland noted, too, that the Chicago meeting had virtually buried the "loyalty oath" to which Southerners had objected strenuously. The oath pledged 1952 convention delegates to try to get convention nominees on their state ballots under the Democratic label. Holland said evident dropping of this, with other actions, "ought to give us new unity for the congressional elections this fall."

Invitations to speak at the dinner, signed by all Democratic members of the Florida congressional delegation, have been sent to Stevenson, Sen. Russell (D-Ga) and Rep. Rayburn of Texas, the House minority leader.

County Soil Conservation Unit Elects Roland Leeper Chairman

The Marion County Soil Conservation District board of supervisors reorganized at its monthly meeting last night in the soil conservation office, with Roland L. Leeper named chairman.

He replaces H. H. Beringer. Others elected were Calvin W. Baldinger, vice chairman; John E. Ruth, secretary; and Carl F. Seiter, treasurer.

Three conservation agreements totaling 527 acres and six complete basic plans totaling 1,464 acres were approved at the meeting.

Farm agreements approved were those of J. C. Baird of New Bloomington, 60 acres; Herbert C. Shelton of Cardington, 367 acres; and Junior Moore of Waldo, 100 acres. Plans approved included those of Robert Everett of New Bloomington, 377 acres; Ed Rothfuss of near Marion; 191 and 170 acres; Paul Schaber of New Bloomington, 120 acres; Robert and Verne Imbody of New Bloomington, 310 acres and Gomer Johnson of New Bloomington, 296 acres.

Calvin Baldinger was selected as a delegate to the Ohio Federation of Soil Conservation Districts meeting at Columbus on Jan. 26 and 27.

At the annual County Soil Conservation District meeting and fish fry at Eagles Hall on Jan. 7, Carl F. Seiter and Arthur P. Isler were elected to three-year terms on the county soil conservation district board of supervisors.

Members of the nomination committee were Clifton Wenig of New Bloomington, Ralph Williams of near Prospect and P. D. Hite of near Marion. At the meeting, H. H. Beringer asked not to be considered for re-election. He had served for the past eight years.

W. L. Williams, soil conservationist, Arthur Smith, county agricultural agent, and C. L. Blackman, extension dairyman at Ohio State University, spoke at the meeting.

OBERLIN TO GET LOAN

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—The federal government will give Oberlin College a $1,160,000 loan to build four dormitories housing 160 men and 160 women. Oberlin President William Stevenson said the loan has been approved by the U.S. Housing and Home Finance Agency, which instructed the college to submit plans within 90 days.

Man Fined $200, Costs On Drunk Driving Count

A Marion driver chaged with drunken driving by city police was to five days in the Marion County fined $200 and costs and sentenced to five ays in the Marion County jail when he pleaded guilty in Municipal Court today.

Homer E. Brammer, 31, of 960 N. State St. was arrested at 3:21 a.m. this morning as he drove along Leader St. Judge W. Dexter Hazen said he levied the stiff fine against him because this was his second drunken driving offense. Brammer's driver's license was also suspended for three years.

MANY OF THOSE 1954 automobiles you see in the dealer's show rooms or on the streets had to pass through a rugged obstacle course on the Bonneville Salt Flats in northwest Utah. These cars, like soldiers, had to survive "boot training" in order to pass muster with the nation's car owners. One company of men and equipment set up a base on the flats, where the temperature ranges from 110 degrees in the day to 40 degrees at night. Food and water were brought in from Wendover, Ut. One car crowded more than eight months' driving into three punishing days. Another covered 4,869 miles in two days.

Timer tells driver to "tramp on it" down the home stretch.

Drivers and timers take turns in resting in round-the-clock speed races.

Immediately after a test, mechanics go over the car to check for defects.

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (UP) — Two generations—father and son—have spanned the history of the United States. And the son still is living. He is Charles E. S. president from Washington to Eisenhower," Bonham said.

REFUSES TO SHOW BOOKS. Ball point pen manufacturer Paul C. Fisher peers through the bars of his cell in Chicago's county jail where he is serving an indefinite sentence for refusing to allow the Labor Department to inspect his books to see if he has violated the wage hour laws. Cited for contempt of court, the manufacturer will remain in jail until he surrenders the books. Fisher, who contends the edict is a violation of his rights of privacy, said he will offer the books for investigation only if the department can show him where he has violated the law.

Pathologist Called In Court Hearing On Fostoria Death

FOSTORIA, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University pathologist was to testify today in a preliminary Municipal Court hearing of a first-degree murder charge against George Lloyd Buck in the death of his wife, Mary.

The pathologist, Dr. Emerich Von Haam, made an autopsy of the body of the 27-year-old woman Friday night. Her body was found in the attic of her home and police say Buck admitted he knocked her down and hauled her through a trapdoor into the attic.

Judge James V. Ford, in Municipal Court, must decide whether to send the case to the grand jury and on what charge.

Buck has pleaded innocent to the murder charge brought by City Solicitor Lester T. Huth.

EARS TOO LARGE. During frigid 25-degree below zero weather, not fit for a dog, this little cocker spaniel named Jill tried out a pair of king-sized ear muffs at Minneapolis, Minn. But her master's efforts were futile. It did little to help Jill endure the second straight day of sub-zero temperatures. Jill's long and floppy ears just wouldn't curl up inside the muffs.

NEW LONDON, N.H. (UP)—Two local residents can boast that their grandfather fought under George Washington. Dogs Have More Sense Than Men, Veterinarian Says

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Dogs are more down-to-earth than humans. But that's about the only difference, a California veterinarian says.

Dr. R. A. Stocking of Los Angeles is attending the convention of the Intermountain Veterinary Medical Assn. here. He thinks that hound of yours may have the same troubles, emotions and thoughts you do.

Your dog may dream, have ulcers, be intelligent or dull-witted. He may become nervous and upset if he sees you beating your wife. Which may be why Dr. Stocking says he believes the world would be better if there were more dogs and fewer humans.

If you want your dog to be normal, give him a normal home life, the Los Angeles veterinarian says. Dogs are just as much affected by their surroundings, he reports, as humans.

Church Conducts Retreat Program

Annual mid-winter retreat of the Epworth Methodist Youth Fellowship was held Sunday with Rev. Clare M. Ingham, director of youth work for the Inter-Board Council of the Ohio Conference, Methodist Church, as the special guest.

Beginning at the Sunday School hour, members of the Youth Division assembled in the Service Chapel. Rev. Ingham gave an overall picture of youth work in the individual church, and young people participated in evaluation of their own program.

After the morning worship service, a fellowship dinner was held in the church's Fellowship Hall. Discussion in the afternoon was on five different areas of youth work. Lunch in the evening preceded a period of recreation.

Bucket Line Puts Blaze Out Before Equipment Comes

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—State Troopers William K. Sankbeil and William Pitzer discovered a fire in a home while cruising yesterday a nearby Hedgesville.

They radioed Martinsburg police to send a fire truck, but the Martinsburg radio wasn't strong enough to pick up the signal. Then they radioed Romney, W. Va., police, who radioed the Police Department at Winchester, Va., who radioed the Police Department at Martinsburg, W. Va., who phoned the Fire Department.

But before the fire engine arrived, Sankbeil and Pitzer had formed a bucket brigade and put out the fire.

Superior Height Gives Delphos Win Over St. Mary

Irish Win Streak Snapped 64-47; Visitors Notch No. 15

By JOHN SHORT

A towering Delphos St. John cage quintet handed St. Mary its fifth loss against eight wins last night at the Coliseum 64-47.

It was the fifteenth win against a single loss for the visiting Blue Jays, who are ranked second among Ohio's Class B prep school cagers in the Associated Press poll.

Height Advantage

Coach Bob Arnzen threw a starting lineup into the tilt which outstretched the Irish at every position. Ralph Elwer, 6-5 center, was the tallest of the quintet but the player who added most to the Irish defeat was Barney Altman, 6-2 senior forward. Altman was everything a coach would want. He led the Delphos attack with 23 points and brought in more rebounds than the slower Elwer. He capped the night with an outstanding defensive performance. He helped hold St. Mary to a 26 per cent shooting average.

Altman took over the scoring job when a tight Irish defense refused to allow the Blue Jays to carry the ball in. With the middle of the floor plugged by a defensive wall the visitors resorted to outside shots and Altman delivered the death blow. He dropped 10 attempts through the hoops mostly from the corners and from outside the keyhole. On the shots that were missed Elwer and Bob Kill, 6-2 junior, proved effective in batting in the rebounds.

The tipins were the biggest cause of the defeat. A total of 10 two-pointers were batted in by the pair of Delphos stars and the two rebounders also managed to stop the Irish under their own board.

Ray Robbins' scrappy Irish crew managed to hold the heavily-favored visitors for the first half only to fall hopelessly behind in the third stanza.

Irish Score First

St. Mary opened the scoring when Mike Anderson dumped in the first of his 12 foul shots. The red head missed only one of 13 attempts from the foul line. A pair of free throws and a field goal by Roger Micheli and another two charity tosses by Anderson gave the Irish a 7-6 lead with almost half of the opening period gone. Then Altman hit from the corner and the visitors were ahead for the rest of the game.

At the end of the first period, St. Mary trailed by a 17-10 count. Early in the second stanza, the Delphos squad spurted into a 10-point lead but the Irish fought back. Then in the middle of the quarter, Larry Ryan hit on a field goal attempt and Butch Merchant dropped through a pair to reduce the margin to 36-22. From there the teams battled on even terms to finish the half with the score 32-27.

During the third period, Delphos piled in 16 markers while the Irish hit only twice from the the field. St. Mary was unable to the ball in for shots but kept in the running at the foul line where eight attempts were good. The first Irish fielder in that frame came with two minutes and nine seconds remaining when Micheli scored on a jump shot.

The Irish were also held to a pair of field goals in the final period and managed to add only four foul shots as the Blue Jays sealed the verdict with a 16-point burst.

Anderson High

Anderson paced the Irish attack with 18 points. He added three field goals to his total from the foul line. Micheli added 12 markers and Merchant finished with 10. Elwer dropped in 16 for the winners an Kill had 11.

The Irish reserves were nipped 35-25 in the preliminary game. The teams finished the first period with Irish trailing 7-6. The locals were behind 18-14 at the half and 27-22 at the end of the third period.

Dave Kraft topped the future Irish with 10 points. Bob Pothast was high for the winners with 11.

The Irish will resume action Saturday night when 'Treeze' Sharrock brings his Rosary charges into the Colseum floor. A total of 433 fans watched the game last night.

Waldo Defeats Delaware Team

Waldo edged Delaware St. Mary 61-59 on the losers' hardwood Tuesday night to run its season mark to 8-6.

Two one-handed set shots by Stan Yake provided Waldo with the slim win. Both came in the final seconds of the tilt with the hosts leading 59-57.

Waldo rushed out front 19-11 in the opening period but saw its lead cut as the losers outscored Waldo in each of the next two periods. Waldo led 35-28 at halftime and 47-45 at the three-quarter mark.

Each team shoved in 14 markers during the final period in which the lead changed hands on numerous occassion before Waldo went out front in the last seconds for the win.

Don Yake's 21 points and Stan Yake's 14 offset a 30-point performance by J. Warner of the losers. The lanky forward dumped in 13 baskets and added four points from the foul line for his 30-point total. J. Hartley pushed in 16 more for Delaware.

Each quintet dropped in 26 baskets but Waldo made up for that by sinking nine free throws while Delaware was making only seven from the charity line.

In a junior high game, Waldo walked off with a 44-33 triumph as Bill Pickett dropped in 14 points. Hienman had 13 for the losers. Waldo is at Prospect Friday.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

The eyes of Ohio's football fans are still centered on Massillon, where the Washington High School athletic department is shooting for a replacement for likable Chuck Mather. Mather disappointed the state's fans last week when he accepted a three-year contract as head coach at the University of Kansas. Many Buckeye followers were hoping he would some day be hired to fill the same post at Ohio State.

SHORT

MATHER, IN six seasons at the Massillon helm, turned out six state champions and now considers himself ready for the jump to the college field. With a three-year contract tucked away, he has time to revamp the grid fortunes at Kansas and at the same time boost his chances for a crack at Big Ten football, if he still wants it.

Mather follows in the footsteps of another "pretty fair" coach at Massillon. Paul Brown went from there to Ohio State and to the Cleveland Browns by way of the Great Lakes wartime teams.

Chuck's record at the Tiger school equaled that of Brown and helped in building Massillon into "Touchdown, USA." Mather's scoring machines have been the talk of the Ohio football world and films of the squad in action amazed the NCAA coaches at the recent convention in Cincinnati. Mather was one of the few high school mentors invited to take part in that program.

The newest collegiate coach makes football a year-round job and hobby. During a visit to his spacious office last March, we found him studying football diagrams in a room lined with momentos of Massillon's championship squads. Only thing we found in the office not pertaining to football was a family picture placed on his desk.

HIS INSISTENCE on precision work by his charges all but guarantees a winning team for Kansas. In addition to Ohio State missing Mather as a coach, Buckeye fans have another worry.

Last season, Mike Takacs, Jim Reichenbach and Jerry Krisher comprised the "Massillon middle" for the OSU squad. But with a home product piloting the Kansas school, future Tiger stars may choose to display their ability for their former coach.

Notre Dame Cagers Steal Page From Football Book

By BEN PHLEGAR

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame, for years a synonym for winning football, is showing the fans this winter that it can excel in other sports too.

The Irish have produced one of their finest basketball teams in history. Overlooked generally during early season play when they were beaten by Indiana and Bradley, the Irish climbed in a hurry after whipping previously unbeaten Holy Cross by 22 points last week.

They were ranked sixth in this week's Associated Press poll. Last night in their last outing before midyear exams the Irish trounced Purdue 95-74 for their 10th victory.

Joe Bertrand scored 25 points and four other Notre Dame players collected 10 or more.

Howard Cann, veteran coach at New York University, says balance appears to be the big thing in Notre Dame's favor.

"What a bench they've got," he declared after a losing trip to South Bend. "I couldn't tell any difference between their first five and their next seven. Any one of them could be a starter for me. And their freshmen—terrific!"

Holy Cross, which had won 11 straight until it ran afoul of Notre Dame, added No. 2 to its new winning streak with an 82-67 decision over Dartmouth. Togo Palazzi scored 38 points although he converted only 10 of 20 free throw attempts.

North Carolina State knocked North Carolina out of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference in a rough-and-tumble 84-77 encounter at Chapel Hill. Seventy-four fouls were called and State scored 38 of its points at the foul line. Maryland, with a 6-1 record but idle last night, took over the conference lead.

Texas Tech won its fourth straight Border Conference game 78-60 over Hardin Simmons, and moved into a tie for the lead with West Texas State.

De Paul swamped Lewis College 94-42; Hobart whipped Colgate 75-58; and Hampden-Sydney beat Virginia Military 65-60.

Barons' Schultz And Vejprava Increase Totals

Latest International Hockey League figures released today from the league office show Marion's Kenny Schultz and Gordon Vejprava have moved up notches in the scoring race.

Both turned in hat tricks in weekend games. Schultz now ranks sixth among the league's top 10 scorers and Vejprava is seventh. Vejprava's hat trick, fourth of the season, cemented his hold on league leadership in that department.

Schultz has 28 goals and 29 assists for 57 points while Vejprava has 53 points on 32 goals and 21 assists. Toledo's Dick Pontarollo continues to be the IHL's 'Mister Big' with the leadership in goals and assists as well as points. He has notched 35 goals and is credited with 43 assists for 78 points.

He is trailed in second by a Toledo teammate, Roy Hammond, who has 29 goals and 40 assists for 69 points. Next come Don Hall of Johnstown with 28 goals and 38 assists for 66 points: John Kovich of Toledo with 21 goals and 41 assists for 62 points; George Hayes of Grand Rapids with 25 goals and 3 assists for 58 points; Schultz and George Edwards of Troy who has 24 goals and 33 assists for 57 points also; Vejprava; and Arnie Schmautz of Johnstown, who has 22 goals and 30 assists, and Billy Goold of Cincinnati, who has 14 goals and 38 assists, both with 52 points.

Toledo's Pontarollo also leads in the number of winning goals with 7. Troy's Garnet Schai still holds onto his 'bad boy' title with 140 minutes in the penalty box. Cincinnati's Charlie Hodge has the best goalkeeper's average with 2.50 while he and Bill Tibbs of Toledo are tied for the most shutouts, with five each.

Hall of Fame Vote Set Today; Terry Favored

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's Hall of Fame, now numbering 70 members, is expected to be increased by two and perhaps as many as five today when the ballots are counted in the 14th annual election.

The ballots, cast by some 300 members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America, have been under lock and key in Commissioner Ford Frick's office. So there is no indication of how many will be honored.

But on the basis of last year's election, at least five figure to have a chance to have their names engraved on a plaque which will hang in the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y. Rules of the election require that a player's name be on 75 per cent of the ballots.

And under a new rule, in effect for the first time this year, a player must have been out of organized ball at least five years. The only exception is those who received more than 100 votes last year when Dizzy Dean and Al Simmons were named. Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankee Clipper; Bill Dickey, former catcher and now coach with the Yankees; and Ted Lyons, ex - Chicago White Sox pitcher and manager and recently signed as Brooklyn coach.

Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, the great little shortstop who died recently, appears to be the outstanding candidate. Last year he received 174 votes, 24 short of election. Maranville, sparkplug of the 1914 Boston Braves world championship team, had been away from organized ball for more than a decade.

Bill Terry, one of the all-time New York Giant greats and former manager, also is considered a strong candidate. Terry, engaged in private business in Florida, polled 191 votes a year ago, when Dean was elected with 209 and Simmons with 199.

Prospect Sinks Byhalia 79-68

Coach Bob Kelly's Prospect quintet rolled by Byhalia-York 79-68 on the losers' court last night to run its season slate to 11-3.

Prospect led all the way and when the hosts drew within shooting distance of the winners in the final period, three quick baskets put the game out of Byhalia's reach.

The Marion County five led 20-16 at the first quarter and at halftime had increased its bulge to 44-37. Prospect retained its seven-point lead at the three - quarter mark, 54-47, and pulled away in the final stanza.

The losers made the game as close as it was by sinking 14 of 17 attempts from the foul line. Prospect had 26 chances from the charity line and made good on 15.

Bob Rodgers topped the Prospect scoring with 22 points while Tom Hickman added 21 and Don Krawczyk pumped in 16. Bob Matthews chipped in with 14. Kay Hutchins led the losers with 26 points.

Color Doesn't Improve the Jokes

Color television is a truly marvelous thing but — like the first broadcast from the new tower on the Empire State Building which was, you recall, an old cowboy movie — the programs that spill in lovely blues and greens and reds into your living room sometimes make you wonder whether it was worth the trouble inventing the darn thing.

J. CROSBY

The two shows most recently viewed were CBS' "New Revue" which is billed as the first regularly scheduled color program and "The Amateur Hour" on NBC which may be the oldest program anywhere around. Both were pretty dreary. Color, though, certainly adds a tremendous eye appeal to even the sorriest spectacle. "The Amateur Hour," for example, opened with a succession of curtains, all of different hues, rolling back one after another. It was quite a sight.

TED MACK, who presides over "The Amateur Hour," has settled on a formula of homespun corn which, I guess, is relished in the backwoods but is not my dish of tea at all. You get barbershop quartets, cowboys playing harmonicas, that sort of thing. You can hear some of the worst singing your ears were ever assaulted with — and color television, I'm afraid, does nothing to conceal the absence of vocal chords.

Four small Negro boys, the winners from the previous week, did a rather odd act, slapping their things and clapping their hands in a fine rhythmic manner — if that sort of thing appeals to you. The high point of a real low evening — to me at least — four colored clown suits who did a tumbling act. They were cute as buttons and, tumbling about the floor, they looked like a troupe of performing puppies.

THE PROGRAM — if you can call it that — wound up with a group of Irish folk doing an Irish reel which was notable chiefly for the dark green dresses worn by the girls and the mustard color shirts worn by the boys. Technically, it was a triumph of electronics.

I can't recall ever seeing such glowing colors, such pleasant lighting and the rest of it. But as show business, I should say that Barnum was a good hundred years ahead of this in his day — and that was a hundred years ago.

What hath RCA wrought, I kept musing to myself, and having wrought it, can't they do something better than this with it? "Color television," intoned Ted Mack, who inherited this show from the late Major Bowes, "is just another milestone in the march of 'The Amateur Hour'." Well, yes, I suppose that's true. But "The Amateur Hour" is hardly a milestone in the march of color television. More of a roadblock.

THE COMMERCIALS, incidentally, were just plain terrific. A cherry pie was covered with whipped cream — whipped cream is absolutely sensational on color TV, Mannie. Let's see if we can't sign it up exclusive — and the whole concoction looked, if you'll pardon the expression, good enough to eat.

"The first regularly scheduled color television show" looks as if it had been put together with a piece of string and 25 cents. I could loosely be called a variety show — singers, tapdancers, puppets and occasionally from Mike Wallace, the emcee, jokes.

'Marriage is a wonderful institution," declared Mr. Wallace, "but who wants to live in an institution." That, I've decided, is what you might call an on-color joke. Enough of those and they'll drive us all back to the burlesque houses to listen to the other kind.

The brightest moment of this confection to me was, of all things, a setting for a song which had the impudence and gaiety and dreamy enchantment of a Dufy painting. The scene designers, I decided are going to have a field day in color television.

HEADS STEEL FIRM

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—A. R. Edwards was elected yesterday to the presidency of Armco International, an Armco Steel Corp. subsidiary which operates foreign fabricating plants and provides a technical service for foreign steel producers. Edwards succeeds E. A. Emerson, president of AIC since 1931 who became chairman of the firm's executive committee.

BUCYRUS — A former Bucyrian, Ralph O. Perrott Jr., now living in Findlay, has been elected president of the Findlay Chamber of Commerce. Perrott is vice president of the Ohio Engineering Co. in Findlay. He is a graduate of Bucyrus High School.

Crestline Man Held To Crawford Jury

BUCYRUS — James C. Harney, 23, of Crestline, was released from Crawford County jail Tuesday afternoon after furnishing bond of $1,000 following his arraignment before Justice of Peace Robert C. Neff here.

Harney pleaded innocent to a charge of stealing $303 worth of side rod bushings from the Pennsylvania Railroad roundhouse at Crestline and was held to the grand jury at his preliminary hearing before Justice Neff.

Testifying against Harney, who was arrested Monday afternoon by Sheriff Elwood F. Jacobs, were Lieut. W. D. Conrad and Patrolman D. L. Wood of the railroad's police force. The thefts allegedly took place over a two-month period ending Jan. 9. The metal, sold to the Commercial Scrap Co., Mansfield, has been partially recovered, Sheriff Jacobs said. Harney has been employed by the railroad in Crestline.

Fort Recovery Faces Pollution Action in Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board asked the attorney general today to begin prosecution against Fort Recovery, Mercer County, for violation of the water pollution control law.

It was the first request of its kind made by the conrol board.

The board found the village—population 1,231—in violation of the law and issued a cease and desist order.

Village officials had been invited to appear before the board Tuesday, but declined. They did not reply to mailed queries from the board.

A spokesman for the board said Fort Recovery has been without a sewage discharge permit since March 5, 1953. Formal notice of violation was given the village June 19, 1953.

Conviction on charges of violating the control law carries a penalty of $500 a day for each day of violation.

The control board also annbunced it has taken the first step in enforcement procedure against the City of Martins Ferry. That city's sewage discharge permit expired Nov. 2, 1953. An application for renewal was made but the board declined to take action. Martins Ferry officials will be given a hearing at the next board meeting Feb. 16, when they'll be given an opportunity to "show cause" why the renewal should not be denied.

FBI Agent Transferred

CINCINNATI (AP) — Harvey G. Foster, special agent in charge of the Cincinnati office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today he has been transferred to Boston in the same capacity.

M. Wilson McFarland, who has been special agent in charge of the FBI in Little Rock, Ark., will succeed Foster here, it was said. The transfers will become effective Feb. 3.

RIP KIRBY By Alex Raymond

SHARP, DO YOU REALLY THINK I SHOULD SEE CLARENCE TWICKAM WITH THIS BUNCO THING HANGING OVER ME?
BUNCO'S DEATH WAS AN ACCIDENT, JENNY...HIS OWN FAULT. FORGET IT...LOOK AHEAD.
BUT A WEALTHY SUITOR LIKE CLARENCE COMING HERE.. I'M A WRECK... MY CLOTHES... HAIR...
I'VE THOUGHT OF THAT TOO. LET ME FOOT THE BILL FOR YOU AT THE BEST SHOPS... MY LITTLE GIFT...
SHARP, I HAD YOU WRONG. YOU'RE GENEROUS AND KIND AND GOOD..
I ONLY WANT THE BEST FOR YOU, JENNY...

SUPERMAN By Wayne Boring

WHAT A RELIEF TO BE OUTSIDE. EVEN IF I CAN'T FLY ABOUT THE WAY I USED TO, AND AS LONG AS I'M CAREFUL TO AVOID SITUATIONS THAT MIGHT REVEAL MY LOST POWERS, I'LL BE ALL RIGHT.
FUNNY, THOUGH, I CAN'T GET OVER THE FEELING THAT I'M BEING WATCHED. EVERY CORNER—EVERY DOORWAY SEEMS FULL OF EYES. IF I ONLY HAD MY X-RAY VISION TO HELP ME OUT...
HEY — IT'S HIM, SUPERMAN, WALKING STRAIGHT THIS WAY!
ALL RIGHT—YOU KNOW WHAT TO DO. SO GET GOING!

GASOLINE ALLEY By Frank King

My baby was the First Baby of 1954—not Elsie Slidnik! He was born one-and-a-half minutes after midnight.
What makes you think so, Mr. Waller?
I looked at my watch when he made the first cry.
We checked with all hospitals, with nurses, doctors and interns. Are you sure about your watch?

TERRY AND THE PIRATES By George Wunder

IT IS NOT NECESSARY TO REMIND THIS HUMBLE POLICE SERGEANT THAT THE DRAGON LADY'S GOLD IS PREFERABLE TO HER ANGER, MISTRESS.
REMEMBER IT WELL... YOU CAN GUESS WHY I SENT FOR YOU, SERGEANT?
EYEE! MY SUPERIORS COMB THE ENTIRE PROVINCE FOR YOU AND THE THREE YANKEES—A THOUGHT OCCURS...
...MY BANK BALANCE IN HONG KONG SHOULD BE SUITABLY ENHANCED IF I AM DISCREETLY NEGLIGENT IN MY DUTY OF PATROLLING THE BARBED WIRE AT THE BORDER.
